HAYNES-BROWN

Loretta Gertrude Haynes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Haynes of 40 Maple street, Watertown, was married Wednesday to Ernest Herman Brown of Bellingham, son of Charles A. Brown. The wedding took place at the home of the bride at 7 P. M., the ceremony being performed by Rev. Owen T. Day of the Belmont street Baptist church. The house was prettily decorated with roses, asters, gladioli and ferns, and the bride couple took their positions under a large bell of roses. The bride wore a gown of white ivory satin, with orient point lace, cut en train. The bridal veil was caught up with orange blossoms, and she carried a shower bouquet of roses and sweet peas.

The maid of honor, Miss Eva M. Haynes of 40 Maple street, the bride's sister, wore white embroidered net over yellow silk with a large lace hat, and carried pink roses. Arthur B. Haynes of 40 Maple street, brother of the bride, was best man. The ushers were Leslie Brown of Bellingham, the groom's brother, and John Marsh of North Cambridge. A reception was given at the bride's home, and the bride's parents and the groom's father assisted in greeting the guests. Mr. and Mrs. Brown have gone away for a month's trip to New York and New Jersey.

SAILORS ROUGH HOUSE

One hundred and twenty-seven sailors, some of whom were from Commonwealth Pier, were arrested Wednesday night by about 40 members of the Boston Provost Guard.

The sailors had been to a picnic near Worcester and while they were returning to Boston on the Boston & Worcester Street Railway line they created such a disturbance that the authorities in Boston were notified by telephone and 40 of the Provost Guard were rushed to Chestnut Hill to meet them.

The offenders were taken in charge and brought into Boston on two special cars. It was stated that besides making trouble on the cars by repeatedly pulling off the trolley and annoying passengers, three stores were broken into.

WORK OR FIGHT

The following extract from a speech of Senator Thomas of Colorado advocating his amendment to the manpower bill to "work or fight" is well worth the attention of our readers. Senator Thomas said in part—

Mr. President, for whose benefit are we fighting this war. For the capitalists, for the leisure classes, for the workmen, for any particular portion of our population? For what are we making these gigantic sacrifices and expending not only all our visible treasure, but mortgaging the generations for centuries to come, unless it be to preserve to the individual, whether he be a workman or a capitalist, black or white, Jew or Gentile, those priceless privileges of freedom and liberty which are inseparable from a republican form of government—the right to strike, if you please; the right to labor or to abstain from labor, if you please; the right to enjoy life and to the pursuit of happiness; the right to everything that makes life dear; the right of the slacker and the exemptionist just as fully as the right of the boy at the front and the family which he represents; the rights and the liberties and the freedom of all? Governments exist largely for the protection of those otherwise defenseless; largely, in other words, for the poor, for the man who toils for his livelihood, cheered by the reflection that he lives in a country where his sons are so much higher in the scale of social life than the point he has been able to attain.

It is for these, primarily, that this great war is being waged, and these enormous sacrifices have been demanded. If it be true that by insisting that those at home shall do their bit we are invading individual liberty, reflecting upon labor organizations, or attempting to exploit workmen, and it is not true—we might easily retort that at this time and at this hour even those things should be done if it be necessary for the protection and the welfare and the future existence of the American Republic.

Mr. President, I believe that the sentiment of the nation demands legislation of this sort. I believe that every father with a son at the front or with a son to be included in the operation of this bill when it becomes a law; every mother whose boy today is wearing the uniform of his country, side by side and shoulder to shoulder with fellow Americans maintaining the honor and the integrity of the American army away from the blood-stained fields of France; every wife whose husband has heard the call of duty and left his family and his home, perhaps forever, that he may give to his country the highest test of devotion; every fair young girl whose heart's desire has been postponed, perhaps forever, because her lover has gone to the colors of his country, ready to march when the order is given, and brave the machine guns of the enemy—every one of these in their heart's depths feel that those who stay at home should make, as far as they can, an equal sacrifice and see to it that the man at the front shall not falter for lack of all that he demands for the full and triumphant vindication of his nation's integrity.

The great heart of the American people is sound, else we would not be in this war at all, and Mr. President, we have only begun it. Every day we see in the public press the constantly lengthening lists of American dead and American wounded. Those somber lists will continue to lengthen as the shattering blows of the war upon us as we advance toward the heart of the enemy's country, and the tears of widows and orphans will mingle with the snows of the coming season. Let us feel, Mr. President, that we at home, those who legislate and those who toil, have performed to the fullest that duty which this great tragedy of nations has placed upon their shoulders.

In a subsequent speech, after the conference committee had eliminated the "work or fight" amendment from the manpower bill, Senator Thomas, in commenting upon their action, spoke in part as follows:—

Mr. President, I do not pretend to be a prophet or the son of a prophet, but I have a prediction to do this before this war is six months older we shall be compelled, by reason of increasing aggravated conditions in the industries of this country, to legislate far more drastically upon this subject than this proviso proposes to do. We are going to win this war; God have mercy upon the American who doubts it for a moment; but Mr. President, if before it is won reverses shall come or disasters shall overtake us, it will not be due to the lack of gallantry and courage upon the part of our soldiers across the seas, but it will be due to the slacker, to the malingering at home who, exempted because of his special skill from actual service, takes advantage of the exemption by refusing and declining to do his duty. That is a stab in the soldier's back, quite as much so as the actual quality which those words involve.

The man who today has been delegated to act in one of the producing industries of the country which are essential to the prosecution of the war who fails to give his whole soul and time and attention to the performance of his task is a traitor to the government which protects him and to which he owes allegiance, and it is the duty of Congress to reach such men just as they have provided punishment for the man who at the front fails in the performance of his tremendous obligations. I feel very sure, Mr. President, that the men at the front possess staying qualities very different from those of the Senate members of the committee of conference. If they did not, I am fearful that with the snows of winter the German reverses would all be corrected.

GUNMAKING GREAT SCIENCE

Manufacturer Must Not Exceed Variation of Two One-Thousandths of Inch in Six-Foot Bore.

Gunmaking is a ticklish business—not dangerous, but just ticklish, writes Edward Hungerford in Collier's Weekly. It's mighty exact. A gun manufacturer must not exceed a variation of two one-thousandths of an inch in a six-foot bore. Not every man who walks into a shop, his overalls under his arm, and announces himself as an expert mechanic, can build guns to as delicate measurements as that.

And a complicated business, too. A single disappearing gun, of a standard type adopted by our army, has, with its disappearing carriage but exclusive of its sights and accessories, almost eight thousand parts. A three-inch gun battery requires 3,876 tools, accessories and supplies which are simply part of its standard outfit. And yet our government stands in great need of thousands of these guns—and their accessories.

An army officer made these things clear to a chamber of commerce man of Rochester. And the chamber of commerce called a conference of several dozen of the leading manufacturers of Rochester. To them the man in khaki made the problem clear. He said that the program for heavy guns for the army until July, 1919, would run to a cost of $2,000,000,000—perhaps even more. He translated these figures into those of size. He said that within that time there would be needed at least 65,000,000 tons of new parts for these guns in addition to 45,000,000 tons of replacement parts.

Let me translate these figures still further for you. There are 65,000 railroad locomotives in this country. Let us assume their average weight to be 200 tons each—it is a very fair estimate. That means that the railroad locomotives together weigh some 13,000,000 tons—or just one-fifth the castings required for the new parts alone of our heavy ordnance for the next 18 months of the war. We have embarked upon no piffling enterprise!

Soldiers Get Reading Habit.
The growth of the reading habit among the soldiers has brought to light an interesting contradiction to the generally accepted theory that among a group of individuals the leveling process is a leveling downward.

The men in the camps who are readers stimulate by their example the interest of those who are not. "Have you read this story?" asks Private X of Private Y. "Naw," replies Private Y; "I never read a book through in my life." "Well, you ought to read this one. It's a better'n any movie show you've ever saw. It's a beauty!" Thus does Private Y get an incentive to taste the joys of literature. There is a tendency toward a leveling upward.

The valuable service of the libraries is further developed by lectures, university extension courses, and the general education plan. Men not only will keep pace with their former civilian activities, but many of them will emerge from the army and navy better equipped for the battle of life.—Raymond B. Fosdick in Scribner's Magazine.

Musically Obedient.
Antonio was overawed by his surroundings when the first draft sent him to the cantonment. And he continued to live in awe, particularly of all officers, during the early days of his training. While standing guard one night, he was in such a flutter when the corporal of the guard approached, that he made his challenge in a low voice which the non-com could not hear.

"You'll have to speak up, my man," said the corporal, "or you'll get into trouble. I'll take your word for it that you challenged me, but when the officer of the day comes around, you'll have to sing it out or you'll get a trip to the guardhouse. Remember, sing it out and sing it out loud."

Antonio vowed that he would make no mistake that would get him in the guardhouse, and when the officer of the day appeared a half hour later, he was greeted with—

"Tra-la-la, who coma dere?"—Everybody's Magazine.

The German Spirit.
"Any restitution that Germany offers to the allies will be offered, you may be sure, in the spirit of Griggs." The speaker was Edward Hungerford the advertising expert.

"Griggs and Miggs," he went on, "were kidnapped by bandits and shut up in a cave."

"They'll take every cent we've got on us," moaned Miggs. "Every blessed cent."

"They will, eh?" said Griggs, thoughtfully.

"They sure will," Griggs peeled a ten-spot from his roll.

"Here, Miggs," he said, "here is that ten dollars I've been owing you for so long."

His Ancestors.
He was always boasting about his ancestors, and one day employed a genealogist to hunt them up. In due time the genealogist of pedigrees returned, and was cordially received by his patron.

"So you have succeeded in tracing back my ancestors? What is your fee?"

"Two hundred dollars."

"Isn't that high?" objected the patron. "What's it for?"

"Principally," responded the genealogist, "for keeping quiet about them."—Tit-Bits.

Advance registration at the Faelten Piano School is ahead of last year, in spite of the fact that the war has diverted many of the young men who were preparing for the musical profession. Their places must be taken, temporarily, by the young women, who are alive to their opportunities and responsibilities in ever-increasing numbers. Besides its College Course for training music teachers, the Faelten School has a large preparatory department, including an especially attractive course for young children. The twenty-second school year opens September 16.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Cambridge in said County, on the ninth day of September, A.D. 1918 at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be allowed.

And said administrator is ordered to serve this citation by delivering a copy thereof to all persons interested in the estate fourteen days at least before said Court, or by publishing the same once in each week, for three successive weeks in the Newton Graphic a newspaper published in Newton at least before said Court, and by mailing, post-paid, a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate seven days at least before said Court.

WITNESS, Charles J. McIntire, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this fifteenth day of August in the year one thousand nine hundred and eighteen.

F. M. Esty, Register.

Notice is hereby given that the subscribers have been duly appointed executors of the will of Abigail Q. Twombly, late of Newton in the County of Middlesex, deceased, testate, and have taken upon themselves that trust by giving bond, as the law directs. All persons having demands upon the estate of said deceased are hereby required to exhibit the same; and all persons indebted to said estate are called upon to make payment to

HOSPITAL LIFE ABROAD

Dr. Reid Relates Interesting Experiences Abroad

Word was recently received that Dr. Duncan Reid, who has now been on foreign service a year, has recently been appointed consulting physician to a large hospital in France. We reproduce an article that Dr. Reid was urged to write for a newspaper which has been started for and among the Americans in France.

Hospital Train Experiences

When relieved from duty with the Special Training Battalion last winter I was attached, as orthopedic officer, on Hospital Train 52. Have been urged to write a few words as to the nature of work on a hospital train and any impressions gathered in this period, March 28-July 20. I agreed to comply with the understanding that what I might write is not to be taken as a complete picture nor necessarily the last word about hospital trains. Censorship, of course, imposes some restrictions.

First, for some description of the trains. There are 16 hospital trains working for Uncle Sam with the A. E. F. The trains were built by various railroad companies in England at an average cost of $220,000. The design of the train, save for some minor modifications, corresponds closely with the latest type of British hospital train which, as we know, has been in process of evolution during this long war.

There are 16 heavy coaches, all connected by vestibules and differing in interior arrangement in accordance with the use of the particular car. Thus, there are 11 ward cars, 3 kitchen cars, and 1 car each for staff, storage and pharmacy. Each ward car contains 36 bunks arranged in tiers of 3. All the bunks are on adjustable framework of iron piping so that an individual bunk can be fixed level as a bed, turned back against the wall, or even removed entire and taken outside the car for cleaning. In this way we could accommodate 86 lying or 48 sitting patients per car. We had just 360 beds available (the eleventh ward car being used by the enlisted personnel) for patients at night, but as a considerable percentage of the men were so-called sitting cases, we often had over 400 patients per trip. It would be too long a story to describe in detail the many little conveniences or fixtures which are a feature of our trains, such as, for instance: individual soap bowl racks, ash containers and magazine racks, electric lights and fans, candle light fixtures, steam heat, lavatories, white enameled sinks with running water, etc., in every car.

One ward car was specialized for patients with contagious diseases. It differed in that it will one could convert it into compartments by closing a series of doors, and furthermore it was separated from the other ward cars by the staff and one of the kitchen cars.

The staff, pharmacy, storage and kitchen cars must be seen to be appreciated. The staff car was essentially a continental corridor car with the compartments serving as bed and diningrooms for the medical officers and women nurses (unfortunately none of the 3 of the latter originally planned for the train were attached to it). There were shower baths and even a white enameled bath tub with hot and cold water (all the comforts of a Harlem flat). A feature of each kitchen was a large built-in refrigerator. But it is out of place to go into more detail; suffice it to say that the entire train was luxuriously appointed and gave evidence of intelligent and careful utilization of all available space.

As regards the personnel. Originally there were 4 officers, 3 sergeants and about 28 men. The first C. O., now engaged elsewhere in the A. E. F., was a major in the Medical Corps, and under him were 2 Medical Reserve lieutenants with no attached officer for orthopedic work (my position). I understand that orthopedic officers have now been withdrawn from the trains as not being sufficiently needed. The 3 sergeants were specially selected to handle three branches of the work (1) the paper work; (2) the pharmacy; and (3) the enlisted personnel. These latter each had their appointed task as—cook, "cookee," ward master, assistant to ward master, carpenter and electrician. The latter, by the way, was a well-trained man from the department of electrical engineering at Columbia University, New York, and by his knowledge and faithfulness kept us out of many difficulties.

Trips

Thus far the trains have been moved by French engines operated by French engineers. On trips our electrician watches every coupling, the conditions of each axle box, etc. Life on a railroad train is not without its thrills, for the first night out a French engineer bumped us into the end of General Pershing's private train (then on a siding), and smashed many of our lights, windows, etc. One of our hospital trains has lost much time due to repairs required for broken couplings, etc., but save for the accident mentioned above Train 52 has never lost a minute.

The train remains in garage on a railroad siding until receipt of a telegraphic order to "part." The chief complaint of the personnel was that the trips didn't come often enough. During the long waits in garage we ran a set of classes for the men. I was made instructor in anatomy and surgery—just one more of the surprises that army life has brought me. The officers spent considerable time in the treatment of patients among the French civilians. We conducted a free clinic in the pharmacy car and made trips to the nearby villages to see the more acutely ill. Often it was troublesome but we found in it a true opportunity for service and valued the opportunity to learn something of the French language and the customs of the people. I said "free clinics" just above, and yet many grateful patients made us presents of fresh eggs, butter, vegetables, etc., which were a welcome addition to our diet.

The ward cars were loaded by generous-sized middle doors and after we ourselves managed the entraining it took little time to load. One time, I recall, the entire train was loaded in 25 minutes, which is more striking if one compares it with the results on the first few trips. On these occasions the work was handled by the French who adopted a system something after this fashion. The entraining officer, mounted on a box, called out the name of each patient to be transported and the latter was expected to answer "Here," and, if a walking case, to come up and take his bag. Unfortunately the average Frenchman cannot pronounce American names correctly and many long delays occurred. Sometimes the loading started at 8 A.M. and was not completed until 3 P. M. After this work was taken over by our own personnel needless to say each man contributed his best to make things move, and since Train 52 was the first of the U. S. Army trains to get into service it claims the distinction of having set headquarters in arranging a hospital train schedule to know how much time to allow for loading patients. It is enough to state that the sitting or walking cases simply walked into the designated cars, 48 to each, whereas the stretcher cases were carried in and transferred carefully from stretcher to the bunks. At the unloading station essentially the same system was found satisfactory in transferring the patients to the waiting ambulances. After disinfection the train was ready for another trip.

Just a word about the treatment of patients while enroute. All we do that seemed possible to contribute to their welfare and comfort, but as regards the dressing of wounds only essential work was done. This policy was based on the obvious fact that it is not considered wise to risk contaminating a wound by dressing it while the patient is on a moving train. I was given charge of the treatment of all patients in the daylight hours and found that the above policy worked out well.

Some readers of these remarks may possibly ride on one of Uncle Sam's hospital trains (needless to say we wish that they may be in process of rapid coarsening) and here a further observation may not be amiss. The trains are beyond all question the most luxurious and complete that money can buy, and the personnel are keen to do their best for their wounded comrades. Thus far our men have been grateful and generally satisfactory. But, on a recent trip, we had an entire load of British casualties from an offensive you all know about. After that trip I don't know a man on the train who failed to pay them the tribute of "the easiest to handle and generally the most willing and grateful load of patients we ever had. Not a complaint in the whole outfit." Our boys can and will equal that record.

NEWTON CENTRE MAN KILLED

DeWitt Gifford Wilcox of Newton Centre, who was in training for a commission in the Naval Aviation service, was killed at Pensacola, Fla., Thursday night of last week, with another student aviator, when the seaplane in which they were flying made a crash dive into the bay. Notice of his death was received today by Wilcox's family in a telegram from the commander of the training school. It is understood that his body has not yet been recovered. The other aviator killed with Wilcox was James Lloyd Churchill of Syracuse, N. Y. A third man in the machine was injured.

According to a despatch from Pensacola, the airplane was flying at a height of 1500 feet when the aviators lost control, and the machine plunged down into the water. Wilcox, who was a chief quartermaster, was the son of Dr. DeWitt Gilbert Wilcox of 132 Homer street, Newton Centre, who also had offices in Commonwealth avenue, Boston. He was born twenty-one years ago in Buffalo, N. Y., and had lived in Newton for the past ten years. After being graduated from Brookline High School he went to Dartmouth College. Leaving college in his sophomore year, he enlisted in the Naval Reserve and was sent to Portsmouth, N. H., for training. Within a short time after entering the service he applied for the aviation service, and subsequently was sent back to college pending a call to the new branch. Last March he was sent to M. I. T. to begin training as an aviator, and in June was transferred to Bay Shore, L. I. On Aug. 1 he was sent to Pensacola to complete his training. Within a short time he would have received his commission.

While at Dartmouth, Wilcox was assistant manager of the college musical and dramatic clubs. He was a member of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity, and an expert swimmer. A brother, John M. Wilcox, who is a Dartmouth College alumnus, is an assistant surgeon, junior grade, in the Navy.

EDITORIAL

The outstanding feature of the street railway strike in this city is the absence of complaint on the part of the public. One hears, of course, some kicking over the lack of service, but the state of public feeling is more of patient endurance rather than of indignation.

This is evidently due to the popular understanding that the action of the strikers is entirely uncalculated for and without justification. We print this week in another column, extracts from speeches recently made in the United States Senate by Senator Thomas of Colorado, and we feel very sure that the people of Newton and Waltham will heartily approve Mr. Thomas' position and that men should work or fight in these trying times.

If we could only prove by direct evidence that the action of these strikers means the lives of our sons and brothers fighting for us in France we feel sure there would be a popular uprising that would make these loafers and slackers afraid of their own cowardly lives. While the direct evidence cannot be obtained, it is just as certain, however, that this strike by hampering production at the Watertown Arsenal and other places is affecting the work and the very lives of those at the front.

We find but little interest in the coming primary set for September 24. With the elimination of a fight for the Republican nomination for United States Senator, no one seems at all interested in the minor candidacies. Republicans should not forget, however, that President Early of the board of aldermen is one of the six candidates for the Republican nomination for the House and the city should be glad to avail itself of his valuable services.

The registration set for next Thursday will be one of the most impressive actions of the war. With over fifteen millions of men marching to the registration desks to submit their lives and their fortunes to the military branch of the country, the world will have to admit that America stands in a class by itself in this respect. It should make every one of us proud to be an American.

GIRL SCOUTS

The Newton Centre Committee of the Girl Scout Council cordially invites parents and friends of Girl Scouts to the Congregational church on Monday evening, September 16, at 8 P. M. to hear Mrs. H. Roblin and Mrs. James J. Storow on what Girl Scouts are, and how it may be of value to your daughter.

A PLAN FOR THE CHILDREN

Next week the children will return to school. There will be an added reason for giving them the right food. We expect them to make good in their studies and their brains to develop normally. We must furnish the right sort of food for growth.

If we choose the right food the child's chance of being the strong healthy boy or girl we want is increased many fold. Proper development of muscle and bone will result, the body will perform its functions normally and resistance to disease will be increased. Active play, sound healthy sleep and a happier disposition should accompany proper nourishment and right food habits.

If we choose the wrong food the child may suffer from malnutrition just as surely as through actual lack of food. His digestive powers are not limited; they must be developed along with other parts of the body and not overtaxed. We must not expect them to do the work of an adult any more than we expect a child's brain to think a man's thoughts.

Regulate the amount eaten. Do not allow over-eating of the foods especially liked to the exclusion of variety.

A well chosen diet will include a good breakfast to start the day with, cereal, milk, bread, butter, and fruit. An empty stomach is not conducive to a good geography or arithmetic lesson, nor is it a good resistant to disease.

Milk, one quart a day, should form the basis of the child's diet. If present prices prohibit sufficient whole milk, skim milk will furnish all but the fat which can be supplied in other ways. Besides the real nourishment provided, milk contains growth producing substances which are vital to the child's well-being. These substances are not furnished in sufficient amount in the other foods which make up a child's diet.

If raw milk is distasteful, conceal it in soups, cereals cooked in milk, cocoa and puddings.

Fruit and vegetables should be included each day. These will supplement the mineral matter furnished by milk and will give bulk which is necessary to the best working of the digestive organs.

Simple sweets are an important part of the diet. Raisins, dates, stewed fruits, simple puddings and sugar and molasses cookies may well fill this need. Give them at meal times. If lunches between meals are needed supply bread and butter, a cracker and butter or some uncooked fruit.

Other foods needed daily are an egg or a small amount of fish or meat to supplement the milk and bread, not too fresh.

A light supper should end the day. This will give the digestive organs a longer rest together with other parts of the body.

No tea or coffee should be allowed, not even a taste. In a family of adults it's an easy addition to the child's meal. Do not make him pay the penalty of thoughtlessness in allowing the formation of a habit which lessens his desire for milk and creates a taste for something that has little good value.

If you wish suggestive menus or further information on "Food for Children" telephone or call at the Home Demonstration Office.

DEATH OF MRS. HENRY E. COBB

Mrs. Henry E. Cobb, wife of the late Ex-Mayor Cobb of Newton, died early Saturday morning, August 31, at her residence on Bellevue street.

Mrs. Cobb was born in Norwich, Conn., but had lived in Newton since her childhood. During her long married life in her home on Mt. Ida, Mrs. Cobb extended cordial hospitality to a large circle of friends and acquaintances, among them many distinguished people from at home and abroad. She was always actively identified with the religious and social life of Elliot Church, continuing her interest even during the last few years when she was a partial invalid.

Mrs. Cobb is survived by two daughters, the Misses Lucy E. and Helen M. Cobb. The late Capt. Morton E. Cobb, U. S. A., who died a year ago was her son.

The funeral services at the family residence, on Monday afternoon, were conducted by Dr. H. Grant Person, with music by Mr. J. Garfield Stone.

The honorary pall bearers were Mr. Edwin T. Holmes of New York, Mr. Joseph Byers, Mr. William J. Follett, Mr. Charles A. Haskell, Dr. Wm. O. Hunt, and Mr. Herbert G. Pratt, all of Newton.

The ushers were Mr. Arnold Scott, Mr. Wm. D. Searle, Mr. Paul H. Sherwin.

The interment was in the Newton Cemetery attended by the immediate family only, the committal service being read by Rev. Charles H. Wilcox of Lawrenceville, N. J., a nephew of Mrs. Cobb.

—Lieut. Louis W. Spaulding of Hingham, whose name is in the casualty list this morning as severely wounded, will be remembered as a former resident of this village. He was born here 23 years ago and was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Spaulding. The family went to Hingham about six years ago.

COMMUNITY HARVEST DAY

Plans are being made for an enthusiastic celebration of the Community Harvest Day to be held in Waban on October 12th in connection with the second annual live-stock show of the Newton Fur & Feather Club. This is a novel and interesting affair and is well worth attending. All the citizens of Waban who have war gardens exhibit their choicest vegetables, the fanciers of live stock display their finest specimens of poultry and other animals, and there is altogether an old-fashioned Country Fair. There will be exhibits of canning, preserving and war cooking as well, for which the women are now preparing. Numerous side shows, and probably some exhibition work by the Constabulary will provide entertainment, and many valuable prizes will add zest to the competition. Entries close October 1st. Blanks will be obtainable at Rhodes' Drug Store and on application to C. H. Walker, Secretary, Waban. The proceeds will be donated to War Relief.

FAELTEN

EVERY year more than 600 students, from many states and countries, and with various aims in view, attend the Faelten School.

Those who intend to become music teachers are learning something definite to teach.

Those who wish to become public pianists are learning to play music that the public will pay to hear.

The remainder are learning how to make music a social asset and accomplishment.

THE College Course prepares for music-teaching and for the concert-platform, for original composition and for general musical culture.

The best positions are always open for graduates of the College Course. Those who have taken up independent work are enjoying unqualified success.

Fighting Fourth Liberty Loan Facts and Figures

BUYING BONDS IS NOW A HABIT

To buy a Liberty Bond has become a habit with the people of the United States, a growing habit, and no one is complaining. This is proven by the figures.

On May 2, 1917, the First Liberty Loan was announced and the campaign began one month later. Two billion dollars in 3½% bonds were offered and brought four and one half million subscribers. The subscriptions amounted in all to more than three billion dollars, of which only two billion were allotted. The outstanding feature of this first loan was the promptness with which it was arranged and conducted. Taking only two weeks to be formed and selling to four and one half million people where only 300,000 people were habitual purchasers of bonds, presents almost a miracle in finance.

To the Second Liberty Loan, offered for sale Oct. 1, 1917 and closed Oct. 27, 1917, there were nine million subscribers and the amount subscribed was $4,617,532,000. Only $3,808,766,150 was allotted. The outstanding feature of this campaign was the important part which labor, fraternal organizations and the women of the country had in it.

The Third Liberty Loan campaign was inaugurated on April 6, 1918, the anniversary of the entrance of this country into the war. Three billion dollars were offered. About seventeen million people subscribed $4,170,109,650, all of which was allotted. This campaign was made notable by its wide distribution among the people and the large response made to it by the rural districts.

The newest loan, the Fighting Fourth, is to be placed on sale Sept. 28. The sale will close Oct. 19, a period of but three weeks. Within that time it will be necessary to sell a very much larger volume of bonds than was sold in any of the three preceding campaigns. The amount of bonds to be offered has not been officially announced but because of smaller demands being made upon us to finance our Allies not more than five billions may be offered.

However, it is certain that the amount offered for sale will mark the Fourth Loan as one of the greatest pieces of governmental financing that the world has ever known. If only five billion dollars of the Fourth Liberty Loan are offered for sale and are disposed of within three weeks, it will be the largest offering ever made by any government and subscribed to in so short a time.

The new loan is "The Fighting Fourth", a title that has been adopted for it by the Publicity Committee of the New England District. Our army in France has begun to take its stride and stride to the army from now on will show a growing desire for the fighting spirit manifested up to the present time. The people of the United States, the stay-at-homes, in subscribing to the Fighting Fourth Liberty Loan are simply keeping step to the same tune which is animating our soldiers and sailors and airmen.

THE SIX ISSUES OF LIBERTY BONDS

Three Liberty Bonds and six issues of Liberty bonds, so easily understood by the financier, need a little explanation to those patriotic citizens who are just beginning to place their savings in Government bonds. The Government has sold three issues of bonds, the First Liberty loan 3½% bonds, the Second Liberty 4% bonds, and the Third Liberty loan 4½% bonds. The first and second issues were made convertible into those that followed (on terms stated within). When the First 3½% and Second 4% are converted into higher interest rate bonds the bonds received bear the appellation "First" or "Second" if the bonds converted are like them in respect to due date and redemption conditions. Otherwise they are like the issues into which they are converted, that is, as to interest rates, issue dates, and conversion and tax exemption privileges. Thus a First 4 means a 4% bond converted from a 3½% bond, and a Second 4½ means a 4½% bond converted from a 4% bond. There are now six issues of Liberty bonds, three original and three converted issues.

CONVERSION OF LIBERTY BONDS

It is often asked by owners of Liberty Bonds if it is wise to convert their first and second issues into higher interest rate bonds. To them it should be said that the First 3½% are completely tax exempt and consequently there is a demand for them by persons subject to high rates of additional taxes. This demand has caused them to sell higher in the market than the other issues. They therefore should not be converted, but persons with ordinary incomes will probably find it advantageous to sell them and purchase 4½s. It would seem generally advantageous to exchange the 4s for 4½s. This can be done only before Nov. 9, 1918. Most banks will attend to exchanges, sales and purchases.

HELP THE GOVERNMENT

Purchasers of Liberty Bonds who wish to help the Government to the fullest extent should keep the bonds which they have purchased, and when they buy additional bonds do so from the Government during loan offerings rather than in the open market, as the money paid for bonds purchased in the market does not go to the Government but simply to previous holders. On the other hand, those who must realize upon their investment can always do so at the market price.

OUTFIT OF A SAILOR

To supply a sailor with a single one of each of the several articles of clothing he is obliged to have costs $68.70. This brings his entire outfit to not far from the price of one $100 Liberty Bond.

WHERE THE MONEY COMES FROM

"Where does all the money come from to carry on this stupendous war?" The question is a common one but the facts are reassuring. There is in reality, more gold in this country today than there was before the war; and certainly there is much more paper money.

According to a statement from Washington there is more actual money, gold, silver and paper currency in circulation now than at any previous time in the Nation's history, and there is a bigger share for every man, woman and child.

In brief, it is wealth, or goods, in some form, which has been destroyed. The cost of the war is largely represented by the destruction of goods, referred to money only as a means of recording their value, and that money, in this sense, plays a role secondary to goods. It is the quantity of goods demanded by war which forms the real economic expense of this terrible struggle. Money remains, goods are destroyed. The war is really being carried on by credit.

A United States Treasury report on August 18 showed $5,559,000,000 in circulation—$700,000,000 more than a year ago and $175,000,000 more than a month previous, making an average of $52.44 for each person.

These figures on the stock of money bear little relation to the nation's actual wealth or to its credit resources, since these amount to many times the actual money available.

The ability of the government to borrow and to obtain enormous sums of purchasing power over goods needed in the war, thus depends not only on the wealth of the country, but also upon its sound finance and the skilled mobilization of its resources. That the finances of the United States are sound, the mobilization of its resources, the confidence of its people in them, the absolute, is more proved by the rapidity and eagerness with which its three Liberty Loans have been over subscribed. That the Fighting Fourth, about to be launched, will meet with an equal response cannot be doubted by any one who knows the spirit of the American people.

WHAT THE LIBERTY BOND DOES

Having bought Liberty Bonds most purchasers would like to know in what particular way the money they have so gladly given is to be expended in the conduct of the great war that has engulfed the world. In response to this inquiry the War Department of the United States Government has computed the cost of various things and just what bonds of different denominations will do. Five hundred $1000-bonds, for instance, will buy an amount of powder equal to the output of one day of one of the Government powder plants while one $50-bond will provide one soldier in the American Expeditionary Forces with food for practically four months or exactly 116 days and a tiny fraction over.

One $1000 bond will provide one 16-inch shell, ready to fire; or smokeless powder enough to propel three 16-inch coast shells and T. N. T. enough to burst 50 three-inch Stokes Mortar shells. Six $100-bonds will provide 10 airplane flares or 50 three-inch shells. One $500-bond will provide two machine guns or 300 steel helmets. Two $100 and one $50-bond will purchase one or more of two soldier companies, or bacon cans for four soldier companies, or 300 trenching shovels.

WHY BONDS FLUCTUATE

Fluctuation in the current price of Liberty Bonds, so bothersome to the person who is unaccustomed to bonds, should not alarm them as it in no way affects the real value of the bonds. Bonds are like other commodities, prices go up and down according to demand and supply. There are now more sellers than buyers because those who wish more bonds are patriotically saving their money to buy from the Government when the next loan is offered, and those who have been unable to pay for their bonds, or for other reasons have been compelled to sell them, are offering them for sale. The result is a current market below par.

This should not disturb bond-holders or raise any question as to the real value of the bonds. They will be paid for by the Government at the full face amount when due, and in the meantime, interest will be paid promptly so that the bonds form an ideal investment.

MONEY IS MADE TO FIGHT

With a fine spirit of patriotism Dr. James O. Ely of Winnetka, Ill., father of Lieut. Dinsmore Ely who died from injuries received in action, gave the proceeds of his son's life insurance policy of $5000 for the purchase of Liberty Bonds. This in a sense doubles his son's help to the cause to which his life had been dedicated. Even in death his work goes on, fighting in the cause he loved.

Lieut. Ely had an aeronautic career replete with hairbreadth escapes and was cited for extreme bravery in vanquishing a German plane in his first flight in Picardy.

LIBERTY BOND OR—

By Helen M. Cummings, Attleboro, Mass.
Some day is your boy going to ask you
When need was urgent, stress was great,
Your help was not forthcoming?
When, in Hell's fray, he stubbornly
Fought to hold the Hun,
Wounded, suffering, almost spent,
"God give me strength to keep this dread beast from Home,
From all I love, from my fair land, America."
In olden days, a battle raged, and so the story goes
That just as long as were upheld the Leader's hands,
So surged the tide of victory.
Are you then going to help those boys of ours—
Your boy and mine—
Uphold their hands and help them save the free man's Right?
Or—fall them and for evermore, be slaves to Murderous Might?

THURMAN-FITCH

The wedding of Miss Dorothy Brinthal Fitch, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. Fitch of Summer street, Newton Centre, and Major Allen G. Thurman, U.S.A., of Camp Devens, took place last Saturday afternoon at Trinity church, Newton Centre.

White and pink Drummond phlox formed the decorations of the church, these flowers being massed within and about the chancel. The ceremony was at half-past five, and was performed by the rector of the parish, Rev. Edward T. Sullivan. The bridegroom was conventional, of satin with trimmings of rich lace, and the usual bridal veil was worn. There were two attendant bridesmaids, Miss Dorothy Taylor of Newton Centre, and Miss Anna Pillsbury, who is from Springfield. Their gowns were of pink and blue, with hats of black tulle.

There was quite a military effect through the men of the bridal party, as all, in addition to the bridegroom, are in their country's service. The best man was Major Edward Harding and the group of ushers included Major Caspar Rucker, Capt. Carl Messenger, Capt. Fred H. Holloway and Lieut. Edward R. Whittier, all, of course, in uniform. These officers, like the bridegroom, are all stationed at Camp Devens.

After the church ceremony, there was a small reception at the home of the bride's parents, where a wedding supper was served. Only the relatives and the bridesmaids, the best man and those who served as ushers were present. Major Thurman and his bride will make their home in Ayer, as long as he remains at Camp Devens, and on his departure for overseas duty his bride will return to her parents' home to remain during his absence in service.

The groom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Thurman of Atlanta, Ga., which is his home city. Miss Fitch's engagement to Major Thurman was announced three weeks ago. He was graduated from West Point in 1913, and was earlier a graduate of the University of Georgia.

WOODBURY-SMITH WEDDING

A wedding of much interest took place at the First Unitarian Church, Beverly, August 31, at 7 P. M., when Marjorie Cleora Woodbury, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Woodbury of Beverly, and Pliny Marlborough Smith (Harvard, 1911), son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Smith of 158 Central street, Auburndale, were married by Rev. Benjamin Reynolds Bulkley, assisted by Rev. Pemberton Cressey. The best man was Leighton B. Smith of Auburndale, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, class of 1919, and the maid of honor was Miss Otta Woodbury of Beverly. The bridesmaids were Miss Ruth Bishop of Springfield, Mrs. Horace Woodbury of Beverly, Miss Dorothy Atkinson of Rosindale, and Miss Helen Lee of Beverly. The ushers were Sidney L. Smith of Hartford, Conn. (Harvard 1919), Lieut. Horace G. Woodbury of Washington, D. C., John Foster of Beverly (Harvard 1911), and Frank Preston of Beverly Farms. The ring bearers were Miss Elizabeth Hollis of Auburndale, and Miss Ruth Patch of Beverly.

The bride was charmingly dressed in white tulle with brocaded silk train and lace veil. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. The bridesmaids wore gowns of pink organdie and the maid of honor wore apple green organdie, and all carried pink gladioli. The little ring bearers wore white net over white satin and pink sashes and hair bows.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith are enjoying a wedding trip to Moosehead Lake, Me., and will be at home at Montserrat, Mass., after October 15.

PROMPT attention, no vexatious delays, never disappointments, are characteristics of Frank A. Locke.

KILLED IN ACTION IN FRANCE

Memorial Service at Trinity Church
Honors Corporal Hooper

A great many of the young people of Newton learned with deep regret of the death of Corporal Edward A.
Hooper, formerly of Newton Centre, who was killed in action in France July 29. A memorial service was held in his honor at Trinity church last Sunday at 3 P. M. Nothing is known of the circumstances of the young man's death. He was a member of Battery A of the 101st Artillery.
Corporal Hooper had been active in the work of Trinity Parish among the young men and boys. He grew up as one of the Sunday school boys, had a class in the Sunday school and was a scoutmaster of the Boy Scouts for some time, and used to take his Scouts and Sunday school pupils on many hikes through the woods and fields of the neighborhood. He was a fine manly appearing fellow, standing six feet three high, and every inch of him a soldier in appearance. He was a graduate of Newton technical high school.

His home was for some time at 219 Commonwealth avenue. He was the son of Mrs. Edward A. Hooper, now of Brookline, who is a sister of the late Mr. Estes of the noted book publishing house of Estes & Lauriat. He made his home for several years at the Boston Y. M. C. A.

Corporal Hooper was, previous to the war, a member of the First Massachusetts regiment of the National Guard, and spent three months with that organization on the Mexican border, at the time of the mobilization.

At the time the war broke out, he was employed at 24 Purchase street, Boston, in the lubricating oil business of the Seccomb-Kehew-Bradley company.
He manifested his patriotic spirit very early in the war, and was the first man in the employ of this firm to haul up the American flag on the building at the time war was declared. It was a touch of tragedy that he was the first man in the employ of the company to give his life. He was regarded as a man of much business promise.

The memorial service Sunday was a dignified and beautiful expression of the sorrow of the occasion, following the form suggested by the Massachusetts diocese. The service was conducted by Rev. Edward T. Sullivan, the rector, the boy choir assisting.
Rev. Mr. Sullivan spoke briefly, bringing out the idea how wonderfully the young men of the nation were responding to the calls of righteousness and patriotism, and rising to that higher mood and view of life which the duty of the hour calls on us to enter into. Mayor Childs of Newton was in the congregation. Trinity Parish has 40 men in the service, and Corporal Hooper is the second of them to make the supreme sacrifice.
George Maxwell having been the first to give his life.

Bear a Destroyer of Salmon.

The bear is a great destroyer of salmon. He is so fastidious that he will eat only the salmon cheeks and will consume one-third of his weight in this delicacy every day. When his hunger is satisfied he amuses himself by tossing the fish out on the banks. The fish are in the stream to spawn, and the egg destruction is by no means insignificant.

THE VALUE OF BOOKS IN WAR TIME

"In the midst of the unprecedented changes which the war is making in our country the importance of books is in danger of being forgotten," writes
J. H. Sears, President of D. Appleton
& Co., in a recent issue of the New York Times review of books. Continuing he says "Books, as such, to the average mind mean luxury. One thinks always of belles lettres, fiction, so-called war books, etc. There is, however, another function for books far larger today than anything that would be classed as a luxury, which brings books into the class of necessary commodities.

"It would seem that a proper function might well be to call the attention of the public to this part which books are now playing more and more as the months pass. Our government at Washington, in the prosecution of the war, finds, as all governments must find, the absolute necessity for controlling many of the great activities of the nation. With the taking over of the railroads, telegraph lines, and the control of food, coal, and other necessities, an immense change in our national life is taking place. No doubt we shall settle back after the war, but never to the point we occupied prior to 1914.

"At the same time owing to the amazing changes in the turnover of labor, caused by the turning of a half million of men into shipbuilding, the disappearance of two, perhaps three, million young and virile men from business life, the consequent introduction of women into many occupations, and many other like changes, the industrial situation is presented with a problem which requires immediate solution. One need not doubt the great adaptability of the American nation in tackling new and unsolved problems, but, nevertheless, the country at this moment, and for many years to come, must learn and learn quickly how to handle the new order of things.

"Out of thousands of business and commercial offices and manufacturing plants have gone already the youthful blood of the young employees. In their places have come still younger men, new to the jobs, or much older men also quite as new to the work. Women, with amazing vigor for patriotism which they are showing thruout the land, have entered banks, offices, and factories as clerks of all kinds.
There is a universal adapting going on each day. How are all these people, new to their work, to pick up the threads and carry on our industries without a setback? They have no time to go for six months or a year to school. They cannot pick up at odd hours a knowledge of bookkeeping, selling, advertising, buying, store management, factory management, or of many of the technical trades in which they are engaging. Their employers begin with each group anew, and teach them in the course of the work day, and yet not let a break come in the efficiency of office or factory. Here, it would seem, is the function of the books on selling, on advertising, on bookkeeping, which will give to the new clerk, man or woman, at least a hint of the principles underlying each branch of business procedure.
Not as much can be done thru books as thru training, but in the emergency infinitely more can be done by the use of books than on any other means."

DRAFTED MAN A SUICIDE?

Cries for help were heard in the Charles River Wednesday evening at a point opposite the grounds of the Perkins Institution for the Blind.
The Newton and Watertown police were notified and both departments responded.

People on the Newton side of the river also heard the cries and J. J.
Roger of 63 Charlesbank road and Henry Lloyd of 55 Charlesbank road rowed out in a boat. They saw a man struggling in the water, but when they reached him he was floating face downward.

They brought him ashore and the police and two doctors worked over him with a pump for an hour.
They did not succeed in reviving him.
A draft registration card, bearing the name Daniele Cuminette, Boston, was found. Dr. George L. West, medical examiner, thinks it was a case of suicide.

THE STRIKE

the local taxi-cab men have reaped a harvest and the steam trains have taken the rest.

Early in the week the strikers issued a remarkable statement, most of which was a tirade against General Manager George M. Cox.

The strikers take the attitude that the agreement between the men and the company which was to run until next spring is only a "scrap of paper." That agreement provides for a method of arbitrating differences, but in spite of that agreement, the men insist that the present differences shall be arbitrated by the Taft-Walsh Labor board at Washington. The company stand ready to arbitrate under the terms of the agreement. The present situation is the result of a deadlock over a method of arbitration.

President James L. Richards of the Company has resigned and Mr. Pitt F. Drew, has been elected president in his stead. It is said that Mr. Richards has contemplated resigning for some time and that his action is not due to the strike.

There is a rumor about that the Bay State and possibly the Boston Elevated employees may be drawn into the matter thru a sympathetic strike.

STRIKE IS SETTLED

Street Railway Resume Operation Tuesday After Decision by Mr. Endicott

The strike of employees of the Middlesex and Boston Street Railway Company came to a sudden end Tuesday morning, when the men went back to work. A settlement was arranged by Henry B. Endicott, executive manager of the Massachusetts Committee on Public Safety. The award as made by him was substantially the same as the company's original offer.

The executive board of the union had agreed to give the company offer a trial for the brief period to November 1, but they had insisted that either party after that date have the right to refer the matter to the National War Labor Board. To this the company demurred. Mr. Endicott's decision is to hold at least until July 1, 1919, so the men have wisely yielded their point relative to the War Labor Board.

The net result is that the men have had a much longer vacation than they probably care for in these times, and that the public has suffered a great deal of inconvenience.

The award was discussed at a meeting of the Middlesex and Boston men with employees of other trolley companies, held at Waltham Monday night. The meeting was originally called to discuss the idea of a state wide strike, but the last named proposition was not taken up. The men unanimously voted to accept Mr. Endicott's award.

The miscellaneous employees, barnmen, linemen, trackmen and others, who received 23 to 42 cents an hour, wanted a minimum of 42, whereas the company was willing to give them two cents more than they were getting. The minimum awarded to these men does not run as low as the lowest offered by the company, and the maximum is not quite so high as the men demanded.

The full text of Mr. Endicott's decision is given below:

Mr. Pitt F. Drew, President Boston & Middlesex Street Railway, and Mr. James H. Vahey, Representing Employees of the Boston & Middlesex Street Railway:

"Gentlemen—Both sides to the controversy which has resulted in the present strike of the employees of the Middlesex & Boston Street Railway Company have agreed to refer their differences to me, and both sides have also agreed to abide by my decision. This agreement was made by Mr. Drew, representing the company; by Mr. Vahey, counsel for the men, and by William T. Egan, president; F. H. Burbank, secretary; George H. Daley, Henry L. Coolidge and Dennis Dunleavy, executive board, representing the employees.

"I have spent the whole of today listening to the parties in the presentation of their case.

"The question referred to me solely affects the wages of the so-called blue-uniform men and miscellaneous employees.

"The blue uniform men are motor-men and conductors; the miscellaneous employees are car barn men, trackmen, track layers, crossing tenders, watchmen and others.

"I find that the company is running at a loss, but that the wages of the men must be fixed, notwithstanding that fact, because there is no question in my mind, and none was raised before me, about the increase in the cost of living.

The Award of Wages

"I therefore find that the blue uniform men shall receive the following wages: For the first year of service, 35 cents an hour; for the second year of service, 37 cents an hour; for the third year of service, 39 cents an hour; for the fourth year of service, 41 cents an hour; for the fifth year of service, 42 cents an hour.

"Concerning the miscellaneous employees, I find that the wages should be fixed as follows: The four men who are now doing car control work, running cars in barns and cleaning cars, shall receive 35 cents an hour; all other miscellaneous employees receiving 30 cents an hour, or less, shall receive 38½ cents an hour; all those receiving from 30 to 38 cents an hour shall hereafter receive 40 cents an hour; those receiving from 38 to 39½ cents an hour shall hereafter receive 41 cents an hour; those receiving 40 cents an hour shall receive hereafter 42 cents an hour; those receiving 41 cents an hour shall hereafter receive 43 cents an hour.

"It has been agreed between the company and the men that this award, so far as all employees are concerned, shall be effective as of July 1, 1918.

"Both parties to this controversy have agreed with me that during the continuation of the war there will be no strike or lockouts on this property.

N. W. F. OCTOBER 5

Newton to Hold an Exhibition to Show What Newton People Are Doing to Help Win the War

Newton is to have a War Fair. It is to be held on Saturday, the fifth of October, at Claffin Field in Newtonville. Claffin Field has been chosen because it is centrally located, is easily reached from all parts of the city and because it has space enough to give a fair that will be a fair.

The Fair is to be under the direction of the Newton Public Safety Committee assisted by committees from the women's clubs of the city and from other organizations that are busy with war work.

There will be side shows worth seeing but the main show, the one in the main tent, or the "big top" as the professional showmen call it, will be an exhibition of what the people of Newton have done in the way of raising and conserving food. It will give an opportunity to the war gardeners of the city to show what they have done and to compare what they have done with what others have done.

That is the big and principal idea of the Fair—to show and compare results. Through these comparisons people will be able to plan intelligently to do better next year than they have done this year. The secondary idea of the Fair is to raise money for use by the Safety Committee to meet the expenses of the work it is carrying on and this secondary idea will give a chance for everyone in Newton to help by buying admission tags for the Fair. The tags will cost twenty-five cents apiece for adults and ten cents for children. They will be on sale before the day of the Fair and the committee hopes that by Friday, October 4, practically every man, woman and child in Newton will be wearing a tag and making ready to go to the Fair.

To make the Fair the great, big

NEWTON RED CROSS

The Newton Branch Wants More Workers in All Parts of the City in the Coming Membership Campaign—Peach Stones for Gas Masks—Notes.

One of the difficulties the Red Cross has to contend with everywhere is the idea so many seem to have that the Red Cross is a social, or exclusive organization, and that to become an active worker one must be personally invited. Here in Newton a little while ago a woman who had contributed generously to the Red Cross fund was asked why she never went to the Red Cross work room in her village. "I'd like to," she answered, "but no one has ever invited me." Last winter, when the men were working at the evening sessions at the work rooms, one man asked another "What do you have to do to get an invitation?" Now the Red Cross is neither a social nor an exclusive organization any more than the army is. It is an organization of those at home to work for those who have gone to the front and it needs all the workers it can get. It has tried to inform the people through the press, the platform and the pulpit that it belongs to all the people and that it asks all the people to help support it and to join in its active work. It sends out no invitations outside of the general invitation to all just as the public schools send no personal invitations to the children to come and be educated. The Red Cross says to every man and woman "We are working as hard and as well as we know how for those who have gone to the front. We need women who can knit, women who can sew, women who can make surgical dressings, women who can run automobiles, men and women who can do work here at home for our soldiers and our sailors. We would like to have you, everyone of you, join in our work. We would like to have everyone of you send in your name as a volunteer, or better still

$150,000 TO TRAIN SOLDIERS

City Contracts with U. S. to Continue Work at Vocational High School Until July

The aldermen met Monday evening for the first time since vacation, and were brought face to face with one of the biggest problems of the entire year. Representatives of the school committee and of the war department were granted a hearing and presented a request from the United States government that the vocational training of enlisted men, which has been in force all summer, and which was expected to cease with the opening of the regular school season, should be continued until June 30 of next year. At the close of the hearing the board promptly and unanimously voted a bond issue of $150,000 to finance the project and authorized an immediate expenditure of $50,000 for maintenance.

Aldermen Holt and Goodwin were the only members absent, and Alderman Early presided.

The Mayor sent in a communication from the school committee in regard to the training of the soldiers and the hearing was opened.

Chairman Albert M. Lyon of the school committee was the first speaker and said that the committee had given the matter careful attention, and while they had no report or recommendation to make, they were of the opinion that the work could be done in connection with the regular school work, and while there was bound to be some complications, they would not stand in the way.

Superintendent Wheeler said that the government needed technical training for 220,000 men. The school has the necessary equipment; has done work during the summer, and the city should co-operate. The project is different from that of three months ago on account of the new draft. There are 300 to 400 boys now in the High School of draft age, and we ought to give them some special training and some shop work, and if the school was also a military centre, better work could be done. The scheme has the written approval of the State Board of Education.

Principal I. O. Palmer submitted figures in regard to the cost. The government will pay a contract price of $164 per day per man and will have 330 men in training. It will be necessary to build and heat barracks for the men at an estimated cost of $14,500 for the barracks and $12,000 for the heating. The cost is itemized as follows: Administration 4½ cents; subsistence 70 cents; heat installation 17 cents; housing 7 cents; heat, power, light, 10 cents; instruction 28 cents; materials 18 cents; barracks construction 16½ cents; total $171; from this the government deducts something like 7½ cents for salvage on account of the barracks making in round figures $164. The cost is estimated at $150,000. Mr. Palmer stated that the government paid its bills once a month, and that on the old contract, just closing, the city had been on the right side.

Captain Johnson, who has been in charge of the men, said that 70 cents was a liberal allowance for subsistence.

Major M. W. Murray, a former principal of the Vocational school, spoke of the great need for trained men. The government is planning to send overseas every able-bodied man in the country and they will be replaced here by men in the limited service class. He told of the work of rehabilitation, finding an expert telegrapher in one hospital, using a one-armed chauffeur in Washington. While the colleges are being organized, he said no attention had yet been given to the secondary schools, and we should begin to organize the boys of 18, and work with them can best be done under home conditions.

Mr. Williston, the representative of the War Education committee in New England, said he had the contract already signed by the government officials, and emphasized the great need for the work. He said that provision was made in the contract so that any unusual costs could be adjusted and there would be no burden put upon the city.

Lieutenant Spencer, who had been at work as a recruiting officer, also spoke.

The orders were then passed as stated above.

WOODLAND PARK

A Country Day and Boarding School for Young Girls

THIS Junior Department of Lasell Seminary, will train girls under fifteen years, giving work through first year High School.

For the present the Junior Department will be housed in Carpenter Hall, one of the attractive buildings of Lasell Seminary.

Thoroughly trained and experienced teachers have been engaged to have charge of the school and full advantage will be taken of the possibilities of help from the equipment and large faculty of Lasell.

The school session for day pupils, from nine till five o'clock, will consist of study, recitation, manual training, exercise, play and rest periods, planned so as to give a normal healthy, symmetrical development. Arrangements may be made by which the school automobile will transport day pupils.

Classes will be conducted largely in open air class rooms.

Day pupils may take part work if desired; as the morning session of work, or the afternoon session of supervised play, or lessons in music, art, French, or handicrafts.

Boys under ten will be welcomed as day pupils.

School year opens September 24.

NEWTON FREE LIBRARY

"On every hand we are awakening to the great saving power of co-operation and co-ordination. In no line of endeavor is this felt more keenly than in education. . . . The public library is working, too, toward co-ordinating and relating the work of its various agencies into an organic whole."

Thus we have two great forces with practically the same end in view, that is, social usefulness attained by the same tool—the book. It is a royal opportunity for the library to mingle with the great educational stream surging forward toward reconstruction. So great is this urge in the world, that the library cannot afford to leave any effort untried by which it, too, may become one with this great movement.

Many of the books which teachers of English want their pupils to use can be found on the shelves of the public library; current magazines which frequently have the best material on debate themes are much better found on the reading tables of a library than in the library corner of a school. History teachers are already beginning to ask pupils to work from sources; moreover all school teaching is bending its energies to the instruction bearing directly upon the problems of community and national life. For all these purposes much laboratory material is required, and in furnishing this material the public library can and does supplement the school library to an extent unguessed by the average citizen.

The above is taken from an article by Bessie Sargent-Smith, supervisor of school libraries, Cleveland, Ohio. The Newton Free Library many years ago established a system of co-operation with the schools of the city, both public and private; and is prepared to continue and increase it, hoping for the earnest co-operation of the teachers and the public.

BIBLE SCHOOL PLATTSBURG

One of the opening features of the week of training of Sunday school workers of the Norumbega District on October 7-12 is to be a series of one-night conferences especially intended to meet problems of pastors, superintendents and other officers. The first will be a conference devoted to the relations of secretaries to the superintendents and co-operation of these officers and the pastors. Mr. Arthur H. Merritt, superintendent of the Pilgrim Sunday School in Dorchester, and probably the best known superintendent in Massachusetts, will lead this conference.

Then another evening in this series will be given to the important question of sex education. The two divisions on this evening will be led by Dr. DeWitt Wilcox and Dr. Frances M. Morris, both eminent Boston physicians and both residents in this District.

The adult class work conference will be led by the president of the district, Mr. R. O. Walter, who has had successful experience in this kind of a class, besides his study of the problems as a superintendent.

Mrs. David Black of Newton, the district home department secretary, will have charge of her own conference.

If time permits, one period of another evening will be given to a discussion of greater mutual helpfulness of pastor and superintendent. In all it is a series of conferences of unusual timeliness.

ANOTHER BOY KILLED

Within a month of the time that Mr. and Mrs. John W. Reilly of 301 River street, West Newton, were notified that one of their sons, Private Edward B. Reilly, had been severely wounded in action, they have been officially notified that another son, John, has been killed at the front. John was born in Newton eighteen years ago. While he was working in a munition factory at Bridgeport this country entered the war and he enlisted and was assigned to the Twenty-Third Regiment of regulars. He met death about the time that Edward, who is a private in Company C, 101st Regiment, was shot in both legs.

NOTICE TO BATHERS

All the bathing places in Newton, supervised by the city authorities, have been closed for the season and all the guards have been withdrawn. Parents are urged to instruct the children not to go to the bathing places.

If unusual hot weather should come it may become necessary to open the places for a few days, and notice will then be given to the public.

By virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by Angus A. Martin to Henry J. O'Meara, as Trustee of the New England Development Company under a Declaration of Trust dated November 13, 1915, and recorded with Norfolk Deeds, Book 1326, Page 362, and duly assigned to the Randolph Trust Company, which mortgage was dated August 17, 1916, and recorded with Middlesex South District Deeds, Book 4076, Page 308, for breach of the condition thereof and for the purpose of foreclosing the same, will be sold at public auction on Monday, September 30, 1918, at two o'clock in the afternoon on the premises hereinafter described remaining subject to said mortgage, all and singular the premises conveyed by said mortgage and described therein as follows:—

"The land in Newton, Middlesex County, Massachusetts, being shown as Block D on a plan made by French & Bryant, C. E., dated April 18, 1899, and filed in Middlesex South District Registry of Deeds as Plan No. 285, bounded and described as follows:—

Beginning at a point on the North-easterly side line of Homer Street at land now or formerly of Macomber, and thence running Westerly on said line of Homer Street seven (7) feet; thence Northerly by the Easterly side line of a road marked "E" on said plan (now known as Manomet Road) by a curve to the radius within a radius of one hundred two and 39-100 (102.39) feet ninety-five and 54-100 (95.54) feet by a curve to the radius within a radius of 201.01 feet ninety-three and 29-100 (93.29) feet; by a curve to the radius within a radius of 368.53 feet one hundred fifty-eight and 75-100 (158.75) feet; by a tangent line forty-five (45) feet; by a curve to the left with a radius of 363.76 feet two hundred forty-six and 23-100 (246.23) feet; by a tangent line one hundred forty-one and 44-100 (141.44) feet; by a curve to the radius within a radius of 301.96 feet forty-four and 88-100 (44.88) feet; by a curve to the radius within a radius of 180 feet one hundred seventy-three and 70-100 (173.70) feet; by a corner curve within a radius of fifty (50) feet forty-five and 50-100 (45.50) feet to the Southerly line of Commonwealth Avenue; thence Easterly by said line of Commonwealth Avenue thirty-four (34) feet to land now or formerly of Young; thence Southerly by said land now or formerly of Young by a broken line through four stone monuments six hundred and thirty-two (632) feet to land now or formerly of Macomber; thence Westerly by said land now or formerly of Macomber fifty-nine (59) feet; and thence Southerly by said land now or formerly of Macomber, three hundred eighteen (318) feet to the point of beginning. Containing 127,375 square feet more or less. For title see deed from Henry J. O'Meara, Trustee, to be recorded herewith."

Excepting from the above described premises so much thereof as was released by a partial release given by Randolph Trust Company to Angus A. Martin dated October 21, 1916, and recorded with Middlesex South District Deeds, Book 4091, Page 187. Said premises will be sold subject to any unpaid taxes, municipal liens or assessments or tax titles, if any there be.

$500.00 will be required to be paid in cash by the purchaser at the time and place of sale; other terms will be made known at sale.

come to one of our workrooms and take a hand in the work being done. We need a big list of volunteers to call on when expected big orders come from headquarters. All one has to do to become an active worker is to give two references and to take the oath of allegiance to the United States and these two things every loyal American can easily and willingly do. There is a war work room in every village and the headquarters of the Red Cross in Newton is at Talbot House, Walnut street, Newtonville.

The December Membership Campaign
In December the Red Cross will carry on a campaign for the renewal of yearly memberships and the taking in as members of those who have not yet joined. As Washington headquarters puts it "Every American is to be given a chance to join." Here in Newton every one who joined the Red Cross last December will be asked to renew their memberships for another year and an effort will be made to increase the Newton membership so that it shall include as nearly as possible every man and woman in the city. A year's membership costs a dollar and it would not be a bad idea now to take a small pasteboard box, glue the cover on fast, paste on it a Red Cross and below the cross make a slit large enough to take in one, five and ten cent pieces. Put the box in a handy place and put in a coin every now and then between now and December and by the time the month comes along there will be money enough in the box to pay the Red Cross yearly membership fee. If there should happen to be as much as two dollars then there will be enough to take out a membership which carries with it a subscription to the American Red Cross Magazine, which is one of the best of the illustrated magazines, and all the profits of which are turned in to meet Red Cross expenses.

Newcomers to Newton and the Red Cross

During the summer a number of new families have come into Newton and the Red Cross hopes they will all take a part in Red Cross work. Working at a Red Cross work room is one way of becoming acquainted with neighbors and the people of the city. Any question any newcomers, or anyone else, wishes to ask about the Red Cross or Red Cross work will be cheerfully answered by the officials at any work room or at Newton Red Cross Headquarters, Talbot House, Walnut street, Newtonville. The Headquarters' telephone number is Newton North 2717. To find any Red Cross telephone number in the Telephone Directory look under "Red Cross" which is the index title under which all Red Cross branches are listed.

Peach Stones for Gas Masks

The Newton Branch of the Red Cross is doing what it can to encourage the saving and gathering of peach stones, plum stones and prune stones and nut shells for the making of carbon to be used in the gas masks to be furnished our soldiers. All members of the Red Cross are asked to lend a hand in this work and to take the gathered stones and shells to their local war work room or to the Newton Red Cross Headquarters at Talbot House in Newtonville. All stones and shells turned in to the Red Cross will be forwarded to those who are using them for the making of charcoal.

Red Cross Notes

At the September meeting of the directors of the Newton Branch of the Red Cross Mrs. Vernon B. Swett resigned as vice chairman of the Branch and Mrs. Albert P. Carter was elected as her successor. Mrs. Swett was elected as a member of the Board of Directors so that the Red Cross will not lose her services altogether. At the same meeting the resignation of Mrs. Shedd, as director of sewing, and that of Mrs. Harry V. Jones, as chairman of the Education Committee, were also received. Their successors are to be elected.

The West Newton Section of the Red Cross has been organized and accepted as an auxiliary of the Newton Branch. Red Cross Sections in the other villages of the city will be organized in the near future. These sections are being organized in order that the war workers of the different villages may be given financial help, under the rules of the Red Cross, by the Newton Branch.

What the button hole making machine of the Newton Branch can make to do was shown when Mrs. L. B. Cardell of Waban, at her first day's trial of the machine, turned out seven hundred perfectly made button holes. The record of hand made button holes, 38 in one day, is held by a West Newton war worker.

LIEUT. CRONIN OFF FOR DUTY

Lieut. D. M. Cronin, U. S. A., who has been spending a short furlough at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. Cronin, 18 Nonantum place, left last Thursday for Camp Severn, S. C. Lieut. Cronin graduated from the Newton High School and attended the North Eastern College Law School. He was sent last May to the Artillery Officers' training school at Camp Taylor, Ky., and was commissioned last month. He served as regimental sergeant-major with the 301st F. A., at Camp Devens last year.

COPELEY THEATRE—The third season of the Henry Jowett Players at the Copley Theatre will begin on Monday evening with the first performance in Boston of "Never Say Die," a merry farcical play by W. H. Post and William Collier. It has been acted with great success in many other cities, including a run of seven months in New York, three months in Chicago, and a year in London, and it has achieved equal popularity in Australia and has had three notable seasons on the road. It is through the enterprise of the Copley Theatre management that Bostonians are at last to have an opportunity to laugh at its comic plot and its humorous situations.

EVENING SCHOOLS

The evening schools of the city will open next Wednesday with elementary, vocational and high school courses.

All the courses will be held in the Technical High School building at Newtonville, on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings from 7.10 to 9.10 each week.

In addition there will also be an elementary evening school held at the same time at the Bowen school, Thompsonville.

Mr. Frank F. Carr, principal of the Horace Mann School district, will be in charge of the elementary work, which is designed to give an opportunity to complete a grammar school education.

The vocational and high school courses cover three departments, commercial, household economics for women and technical and trade courses.

The commercial department includes shorthand and typewriting (advanced and beginners), bookkeeping and penmanship, business English and arithmetic.

Women will be taught general cooking, invalid cooking, feeding and care of children, renovation and remodeling of clothing, elementary sewing, dressmaking, children's clothing, and elementary millinery.

Technical and trade courses include machine drawing and blue print reading, shop calculations, advanced machine work and tool making, radio operation, practical electricity, and applied theory, gas engines and automobile repair, truck driving, oxy-acetylene welding, and printing.

Registration for these courses will be held on Wednesday and Thursday evenings, September 18 and 19.

N. E. CONSERVATORY

Registration at the New England Conservatory of Music, Boston, will begin on Thursday, September 12, the first session opening a week later.

The influence of the war is felt at America's oldest and largest conservatory mainly in the introduction, for the first time of classes for preparing young men for the musical services of the army and navy. This department will continue the work of co-operating with the national authorities which was begun in July last when the Conservatory opened a very successful summer school in which bandmen and band leaders from the nearby naval and coast artillery stations were given instruction gratuitously in subjects which it is not always possible for musicians to obtain at their more or less separated units.

The class and private instruction of the New England Conservatory in other respects will be essentially as heretofore, with opportunities for both day and evening pupils. The principal departments are those of pianoforte, organ, voice, violin, violoncello and all other orchestral instruments, composition, harmony, history of music, theory, solfeggio, literature, diction, choir training, ensemble, wood-wind ensemble, string quartet and modern languages. A dramatic department gives elementary and advanced training in pantomime, stage deportment, lyric action and kindred subjects; its recitals give opportunities for public appearance and subsequent criticism.

EDITORIAL

The settlement of the strike on the M. & B. lines early this week, is a distinct victory for the Company. The men struck with the primary purpose of forcing a hearing before the Taft-Walsh board at Washington and in the face of a distinct agreement that all disputes should be settled by private arbitration. The strike was settled by Mr. H. B. Endicott and not by the Taft-Walsh board.

The wages awarded by Mr. Endicott were substantially the same wages which the Company submitted to the men before the strike was called.

In other words, the 400 street railway employees of this Company, subjected thousands of persons to great inconvenience for over a week, hampered production to a considerable extent in the industrial plants served by the street railway, and gained nothing for themselves, but the contempt of every right-minded citizen, who, more and more, is beginning to realize that everything which interferes with the winning of this terrible war, is not only unpatriotic, but is positively criminal, in the effect it has on the lives of our boys "over there."

NEWTON CONSTABULARY BAND

The Newton Constabulary Band has renewed rehearsals at the Armory, West Newton, Monday evenings, at 8 o'clock. Players wishing to join may apply to Wm. A. Parks, manager, Needham Heights, telephone 241-M.

GOOD SCHOOL ATTENDANCE

Many New Teachers—Some Crowded Rooms

The schools began work last Monday and the first day's attendance was a little ahead of last year's. The schools are filling up every day so that the total can not yet be estimated. The classical high school had more than last year on the first day. The first day at the Vocational High school was smaller than last year, but a good many pupils now out on positions are expected to return.

Crowded conditions are found in the Stearns school. A first grade room has had to be divided, half the children attending in the morning and rest in the afternoon. At the Mason school also the fourth and fifth grades are very full and an extra room may be needed. The first grade is also crowded there. Newton Centre is also a growing district.

Two teachers, Miss Drake of Lower Falls, and Miss Moore of Roger Wolcott school, are out ill, but hope to return in three weeks. Miss Gallagher of Franklin school and Miss Agnew of the Horace Mann school, have resigned.

The outstanding feature of the beginning of the new year is the large number of new teachers. The Classical high has more new instructors than for many years. Most of the changes have been due to the offers made to teachers of better salaries in other lines of work. Only one or two of the changes have occurred because the teachers took teaching positions elsewhere, but those who have resigned have mostly gone into government work and business.

LIEUT. HAYES TO MARRY

Lieutenant Harold D. Hayes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert W. Hayes of Waban, will be married Saturday afternoon to Miss Dorothy Putnam, daughter of Mrs. Frederick H. Putnam of Brookline. Miss Putnam is a sister of Lieutenant David E. Putnam, an American ace.

The wedding will take place in the Union Church, Waban, and a reception will follow in the Waban Neighborhood Club House from 4:30 to 6, to which all friends are invited.

Lieutenant Hayes has just arrived from France, having come from the trenches to instruct troops in this country. He is now awaiting orders from the War Department as to his station. Owing to the limited time in which to make plans no invitations other than those by telephone have been sent out. It is expected that many of the members of Company B, Newton Constabulary, of which Lieutenant Hayes was a lieutenant before going abroad, will attend the reception.

Waban

—Mr. and Mrs. George Hall of Anawam road have moved to Allston.

—Rev. and Mrs. Charles H. Cutler have returned from Southwest Harbor, Maine.

—Mrs. N. H. Marvin of Pine Ridge road is spending a few days at Kingston, Mass.

—Mr. Joseph W. Bartlett has been appointed a major in the Judge Advocate general's office.

—Mr. J. M. Bierer and family are occupying the house on Kelyden road recently vacated by Mr. Stillman Shaw and family.

—Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Stephen of Chestnut street are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter.

—Newton Co-operative Bank over $1,000,000 assets. Pays 5 per cent. interest. 61st series shares open during September at 297 Walnut street, Newtonville, or 73 Tremont street, Boston.

—The Union Church will reopen for public worship on Sunday, September fifteenth at 10:30 A. M. At this service there will be Holy Communion. The Church School will open on the following Sunday, September twenty-second.

ENTERTAIN SOLDIERS

Last evening the Newton Club entertained the three hundred student-soldiers who are in training at the Technical High School. The program included plenty of smokes, Mordelia, with his wonderful accordion playing, Mr. Charles T. Griley in some excellent monologues, singing by a quartet from the soldiers themselves, and some fine chorus singing of popular songs.

After the program held in the Assembly Hall, the boys were treated to ice cream and cake in the dining rooms below.

The entertainment was in charge of a committee consisting of Messrs. Henry J. Nichols, Charles H. Simons, Horton S. Allen, Fred E. Mann, and Wilbur N. Shelton. The refreshments were in charge of a committee composed of Mesdames Hunt, Byers, Robinson, Kepner, Starkweather, Townsend, Palmer, Park, Sherwood, Auryansen, and Grunbeck, assisted by the following young ladies, Misses Helen and Margaret Strong, Olmstead, Spear, Ernst, Palmer, Huntress, Kelsey, Bidwell, Kimball, Eddy, Gordon, Luther, and Park.

Tonight the boys will be entertained in the Y. M. C. A. tent, the program including speeches by Messrs. W. F. Garcelon and Geo. R. Pulsifer and the presentation of comfort kits.

Are Your PICTURES Suffering?

How many years since an expert has examined them?

It is the rule for owners of pictures to neglect them until their condition is so bad that the expense of their restoration is many times as great as if they had received proper care.

We give especial attention to restoration, framing and re-gilding and the quality of our work is unsurpassed.

Our Currier-Kellane Shop, headed by Mr. Hermann Dudley Murphy, unquestionably America's most original and artistic designer of frames, has been the leading influence in the development of taste in framing for the last dozen years.

"MOTHER FRIES IT IN A PAN"

A new sauce will add zest to a food which might become monotonous if repeated as often as the present emergency demands. Eating fish instead of meat is patriotism.

With baked fish use Hollandaise Sauce.

A piece of fried fish plus a Creole Sauce is an appetizing dish.

Baked or Boiled Fish a la Rarebit is served with a sauce made of the following ingredients:

2 cups milk

4 tsp fat

2 tsp cornstarch

Salt and pepper

3/4 cup young American cheese

A white sauce with the addition of cheese.

Hollandaise Sauce

1 yolk of egg

2 tsp cornstarch

1/2 tsp salt

Few grains cayenne pepper

1 cup hot water and add to egg yolk beaten slightly.

Mix dry ingredients; add lemon juice and hot water, stirring constantly.

Cook in double boiler until thick as soft custard.

Creole Sauce

1 onion

3 tomatoes or

1 cup canned tomatoes

1 green pepper

1 tsp fat

1 tsp salt

Dash pepper

2 cups hot water

1 tsp corn starch

Fry onion and green pepper in fat without browning.

Add cornstarch mixed with a little cold water.

Add tomatoes and hot water. Cook until thick.

EXAMINATIONS FOR ANNAPOLIS

Congressman William H. Carter of the 13th Congressional District announces that he will hold a preliminary competitive examination for Annapolis, also for West Point, in the office of the Civil Service Commission, New Custom House Tower, Boston, Mass., on October 19th, at 9.00 A. M.

The competitor in each examination who receives the highest mark will be named as Principal, and the Alternates will be named from those receiving the next highest marking.

Only those who are actual residents of the District will be allowed to compete in this examination and there will be no exceptions to this rule.

Anyone desiring to take this examination should write Congressman Carter at once, giving his full name, his parents' name and his complete residence address together with two references as to his character.

It will be possible for a candidate to take both examinations providing he notifies the Commission on the morning of Oct. 19th before the examination starts.

Congressman Carter declares that he deems this method of making his appointments to West Point and Annapolis at this time the fairest.

The honor of such an appointment is coveted by a great many young men and it has been thought but just and proper to throw it open to competition and let the best man win.

I trust that the voters of the 13th Congressional District will give as wide publicity as possible to the above preliminary examination.

SPANISH INFLUENZA

To the Editor of the Newton Graphic:

Sir: Will you allow me to say a few words about the outbreak of so-called Spanish Influenza at present appearing in greater Boston?

It is an extremely contagious catarrhal disease which does not differ from the former pandemic outbreaks of influenza in 1847-48 and 1889-90, at which times it was known as Russian fever.

The disease shows itself about two days after exposure in the usual way by chilliness, fever, headache, catarrhal symptoms and prostration.

Ordinarily the acute stage lasts about three days, after which the patient begins to improve. The great danger comes from trying to get up too soon, as this tends to bring on a relapse which is frequently followed by a fatal broncho-pneumonia.

Persons who are attacked should go to bed at once, call a physician and be guided absolutely by his advice.

The disease is transmitted by means of the discharges from the nose and mouth in sneezing and coughing.

Nurses and others who care for the sick should protect the face with a mask, (a handkerchief tied over the mouth and nose makes a very good mask) and, after handling the patient, should wash the hands carefully with hot water and soap.

Handkerchiefs and all articles liable to be soiled by the patient's discharges should be put in a boiler and boiled for 30 minutes.

No one except the attendant should go near the patient during the acute stage.

In general, during the prevalence of the disease, persons who have colds should protect the nose and mouth when sneezing or coughing and well persons should shun the society of persons with colds.

There is no cause for undue alarm as this outbreak does not differ from ones which have occurred within the memory of many of us, and if properly cared for, the cases are not as a rule fatal.

For purposes of record, the Board requests physicians to report their cases of influenza.

Francis Geo. Curtis, M.D.,
Chairman, Newton Board of Health.

success it ought to be there must be exhibitors, lots of them, from every section of Newton. This is to be an All-Newton fair, a fair to show what the whole city is doing in the way of war work. The committee invites every war worker in the city to make an exhibit, and to get ready to make it now. It invites all war workers to show what they are doing.

What can you exhibit? That is a hard question to answer unless one knows what you have been doing. But here is a supposition that may help you to decide. Suppose that from your war garden you gathered a good crop of peas. A good many of them you ate and some of them you canned. Send in a sample jar of those you canned together with a neatly written or typewritten tag telling what seed you planted, how much ground you used, how much you ate and how much you canned. An exhibit like this would give others an idea of the productive quality of the seed you planted and the exhibited jar would show the size and quality of the peas raised. This would be a big help in guiding others in their selection of seed for next year's gardens. Do with other vegetables as you did with the peas. Send in a sample half dozen of your potatoes, some of your beans, one or two cabbages, squashes, etc. If you raised any rare or unusual vegetables send in samples and tell what they are and how they are used. Then there are the food problems. Have you hit upon a particularly good recipe for a war bread? Send in a loaf with the recipe so that others may see and know of it. How about cake without sugar and what do you do when you can not use wheat flour for pastry?

The big thing to do is to do what you can to help make The Fair a big success and the way to do that is to make an exhibit. How about patched clothing? Our mothers and grandmothers used to be proud of their patching, and patching today is one kind of war conservation. And why shouldn't every shoe repairer in the city make an exhibit of his skill in making shoes give service for a month or two longer?

Make up your mind to be an exhibitor and begin to get your exhibit ready now. Send word to the Newton Public Safety Committee, 893 Washington street, Newtonville, that you will make an exhibit so that they may plan where to place it. The telephone numbers of the Public Safety Committee are 1885 and 1886 Newton North. Write, telephone or call on Mr. McDonald at the Public Safety rooms and he will do what he can to help you make an exhibit that will help The Fair be a success.

FIFTY YEARS A STATIONER

Abner K. Pratt, of Gibbs street, Newton Centre, proprietor of the Boston firm of J. L. Fairbanks & Co., 15 Franklin street, on Wednesday observed his fiftieth anniversary in the stationery trade of Boston, a record of continuity of activity seldom equaled in any business. Mr. Pratt was the guest of the Boston Stationers' Association at a dinner at Young's Hotel arranged in his honor. A sterling silver water pitcher was presented to him.

Mr. Pratt entered the employ of the company in 1868, and twenty years later, in 1888, he was admitted as a partner. The business was established 120 years ago by Benjamin and Josiah Loring in Water street, between Congress and Devonshire streets. J. L. Fairbanks, who had been employed by the company from boyhood, became a member of the firm in 1841, and the company became known as Eayres & Fairbanks. Mr. Eayres retired in 1861, and Mr. Fairbanks continued the business. Mr. Fairbanks died in 1875, and Horace C. Tucker and E. H. Whitney maintained the business under the firm name of J. L. Fairbanks & Co. Then in 1888 Mr. Pratt became a partner. Mr. Tucker retired in 1892, and died in 1899. The death of Mr. Whitney occurred in the same year, and since then Mr. Pratt has been the proprietor. For 104 years the store remained at 288 Washington street, removing about sixteen years ago to Franklin street.

FORMER NEWTON MAN MAJOR

Word has just come from Washington of the promotion of Capt. Harold C. Daniels, U.S.M.C., retired, to the rank of major. Major Daniels is a member of the Courts-Martial Board at the Charlestown navy yard. He was born in Newton, son of Henry C. Daniels, and makes his home in Winthrop. He is a brother of Major George H. Daniels, U.S.A., now with the 15th Depot Brigade at Camp Devens. He has another brother, a professor in the University of Wisconsin.

Major Daniels is a graduate of the Newton High School and was captain and adjutant of the school battalion. He served in Company C, Fifth Massachusetts Infantry, from 1902 to 1906. In 1907 he was battalion sergeant-major of the regiment. He entered the Marine Corps in March, 1909, as second lieutenant, serving at various stations, and on board ship in the Philippine Islands, China, Hawaiian Islands and other places. He was recruiting officer of the Marine Corps, doing duty at Boston recently.

POLICE NOTES

Andrew J. Piggett of Arlington was arrested on Commonwealth avenue, Chestnut Hill, by Patrolmen Kelley and Maloney Wednesday on a charge of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. In the local court he was given a suspended sentence of four months in the House of Correction.

Regimental Color Sergeant Edward B. O'Neill is appointed second lieutenant of 1st Field Artillery at Camp Zachary Taylor, Kentucky.

In connection with this column we insert the following item taken from the South Boston Gazette of Saturday, October 12, 1890:

"HORSE LOST—A horse belonging to Mr. John F. Wolkins, strayed from the muster-field at Newtonville, on the morning of the 17th of September, and has not since been heard from. We reckon Mr. Wolkins would thank anybody who would be so kind as to inform him of the animal's whereabouts."

ITALIAN REFUGEE FUND

Thanks to the generosity of some 300 friends, American and Italian, of West Newton, Mass., the committee in charge of collecting funds in favor of the victims of the Austrian invasion in Italy has been able to forward to the prime minister, G. Orlando, the sum of 4720 lire, which he has acknowledged by a letter sent to the chairman of the committee; G. L. Bannaghi, asking him to extend sincere thanks to all those who have contributed to such a good work. It is gratifying to see that Italy has so many friends in Newton!

PARENTS OF BOYS 15 TO 19 IMPORTANT

The Government is calling on the colleges and technical schools of the country to train officers for the army and navy. Beginning with Oct. 1, 1918, all college students within the draft will continue their college training as soldiers of the United States Army at the expense of the Government. They will receive board, room, books, complete equipment, and $30.00 a month.

Boys should and can enter college before they are 18. The Huntington School offers to boys who have one or two years of school work before they can enter college an opportunity to do two years' work in one. The school will be open the entire year with three sixteen-week terms a year. A full unit course will be given each sixteen weeks. (Circular of information gives complete plan.)

Only boys who are physically able, who have better than average ability, and are otherwise acceptable to the school will be admitted.

The customary program of school work for boys from 8 to 18 will also be continued, as in previous years.

First term opens October 1, 1918.

The Huntington School for Boys, Boston Young Men's Christian Association, 316 Huntington Avenue, Boston, Mass.

NEWTON MEN IN BIG CONTRACTS

Spending Millions in Government Work at South Boston—Daily Cost $200,000

One has a vague idea that the government is spending millions of dollars in some kind of building operations in South Boston, but few persons fully realize just what is being accomplished.

When one hears that a V-shaped wooden office building, 3½ stories high, with over 40,000 square feet of floor space, and with two wings, each 150 feet in length, was erected and in use within seven days; that a concrete floor, 276x126 feet, is being laid every three days, in the enormous warehouses, and that the daily cost is about $200,000, with about 8000 men working in two shifts of ten hours each, it is possible to realize something of what is really being done.

The Boston papers announced last March some of the leading features of the plan, and while some important changes have been made, the essential facts were given at that time.

The work includes the construction of an army warehouse and dock for the quartermaster's supplies for overseas shipments. An eight-story building of reinforced concrete construction is going up rapidly, being built in six sections, each section being substantially 276x126 feet. Between this enormous building which lies parallel to the Reserve channel, four stations are now being laid for a steel shed, of two stories, from which merchandise can be easily placed in the steamers which will lie alongside the adjacent dock. All the work on this foundation can be seen at the present time in progress, from the driving of the pile foundations near Summer street, to the completed flooring at the other end.

In connection with the work on the "Boston Army Base" which is its official name, the same contractors are building a pier shed of several stories in height, further along the dock, and which will be for the exclusive use of the navy department. The most interesting feature of this work is the pile driving, where 18-ton concrete piles are being used for the face of the dock.

There is also a freight yard, with about 25 miles of track already laid, on which 1500 cars can be easily stored, and from which spurs run to the warehouses and docks in one direction, and ample connections made with the New Haven road in the other direction.

There has been so much talk and general criticism of the government policy of letting contracts of this nature, on the cost-plus basis, that it may be of interest to outline the method used at the Army Base.

The contract is most explicit in defining what elements enter into the cost of the work, and is particularly careful in regard to labor. Wages in the various trades are fixed at Washington. The time of all the employees on the work is kept by government inspectors. As the men enter the plant thru separate gates or wickets, for each trade, he is given a card punched with the time, and this card is given up as he passes out, punched with the time and sent to the accounting room to form the basis for the weekly payroll, for which the contractor merely provides the funds. Foremen for the contractor keep in close touch with their men and the cards are punched by them at three different periods during the day. In order that there may be no loafing on the job, the contractor works to a schedule furnished him by government engineers. It is evident from these precautions that there is little room for abnormal costs in this kind of work.

Figures give a fairly good idea of work of this kind. The contract price is practically $28,000,000, and there will be probably when completed, an investment of between $35,000,000 and $40,000,000. Work began on April 22 and must be completed by January next.

The following facts regarding the work are clipped from The Army Base News, a weekly newspaper published at the plant.

The Edison Company for poles on Auburn and Elm streets of the M. & B. St. Rwy. Co. for poles on Centre street, of the B. S. Hatch Co. Webster street, and J. F. Maguire, Prince street, to keep gasoline. After hearings on petitions of the C. F. Eddy Co. for gasoline on Washington street, and the Newton Screw Co. for a 15 horse power engine on Crafts street, the permits were granted.

At hearing on petition for telephone poles on Sewall street, Mr. J. W. Estabrook entered a strong objection.

Hearings were held on laying out of Holly road and establishing a building on the same street, and orders were subsequently passed to this effect.

The list of election officers submitted by Mayor Childs was confirmed. The Mayor sent in a claim of F. W. Larivee for salary as police officer; claims of Mary Curley and Charles Scipione; and recommended these appropriations: $300 engineering supplies; $600 for drain off Kent road; $400 for sidewalk on Kent road; $1000 for shade trees; $1465.58 for completion of fire hazard work; $1450.20 for exchange of Ford automobiles in street department; and various items for Workmen's Compensation.

The jury list as prepared by the City Clerk was approved.

Moth and street sprinkling assessments were submitted by the Forest and Street Commissioners and approved.

The street commissioner reported the cost of sidewalk on Farlow road as $87.86, and construction of Devon road as $428.91.

Petitions of Mrs. E. P. Wells for garage permit on Institution avenue and of D. B. Rich, Charles Scipione and T. D. Murphy for auctioneers' licenses were granted.

Other petitions were received from "The floor area for storage is over 2,000,000 square feet, permitting the storage of sufficient sugar to supply the army of five million men for a period of six years on the basis of the present ration of 2 pounds per person per month, or it will store enough ammunition to supply 1,000,000 men on the firing line with 4000 rounds per man."

In the building there will be used enough window sash to equip 600 average homes. If the 118,000 panes of glass needed were piled one upon the other they would make a pile five times as high as Bunker Hill monument.

As a support for the wharf building, 33,000 piles will be used with an average length of 40 feet per pile. If these were strung out end to end they would reach from Boston to New York, a distance of 250 miles.

If the tracks in the freight yard were made into one continuous line they would reach to Brockton.

The million cubic yards of material will be dredged to allow the docking of ocean liners.

The 4,250,000 bricks needed would build a sidewalk 9 feet wide and 21 miles long.

Cement enough will be used to require 70 trains of 30 cars each for delivery on the job.

Another contract also being completed on the other side of Summer street, where a storehouse for the quartermaster's supplies for army camps in this country, is under way, and which will cost about a million and a half. Time was, and not so far in the past either, when a contract of a million and a half would command the serious attention of our best contractors, but in this particular case, this work is now called "the baby."

Ninety days were allowed by the government for this job, and the W. F. Kearns Co., the contractors, are justly proud of the fact that it was completed in 29 days. The buildings cover 8 acres of ground. Over 13,000 cubic yards of concrete, 3,000,000 brick, 500 tons of steel and 2,500,000 feet of lumber were used on the work.

This work is being done under a general contract with the W. F. Kearns Co., with the principal sub-contractors handled by Holbrook, Cabot & Rollins, T. Stuart & Sons Co. and P. McGovern Co.

Newton residents have a right to be interested in this great work for the government, for the president of the Kearns company is Mr. John J. Cranitch of Newtonville, and one of the principal sub-contractors is the T. Stuart & Sons Co. of this city.

Mr. Cranitch is one of the most widely known men in the building trade in the country. For 40 years he has been a leading figure in great building enterprises. He has supervised the erection of some of the biggest buildings in Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Washington. His long experience and wide knowledge served him in good stead in the present undertaking, by far the biggest building enterprise New England has ever seen.

T. Stuart & Sons Co. have charge of the important work on railroad, drain, water, sewer and street construction and supply the enormous quantities of sand and gravel being used in the concrete construction. The railroad yard is virtually completed, but this company will probably be about the last to work on the job, and the roads thru the property cannot be finished until after the other workmen have finished. At the present time, the Stuart Company have about 1200 men at work on the job.

In addition to this the Stuart Co. has just been awarded a contract by the New Haven road to build the South Bay terminal. This job will cost two million dollars and will be used in conjunction with the Army Base. Twenty miles of track are to be laid, and over a half million cubic yards of earth fill to be placed. It will probably take six months to complete the work.

Western Union Co. for attachment on Washington street poles; Telephone Co. for relocation of pole on Centre street and on Kapasia street, and for removal of poles on Auburn street; from W. W. Trowbridge for garage permit on Watertown street; Carlson & Swanson for automobiles for hire; Clinton E. Holmes for a jitney license; G. I. Whitehead for sewer in Otis park; F. W. Webster for laying out of Fredena road; Mrs. James Murray for lodging house permit on Beacon street; for change of name of South street to College road; for street sprinkling on Langley road; for the laying out of Dartmouth street; for soldiers' relief for Mrs. Florence H. Whitney; Mrs. Michael McHugh for damages on account of overflow of Laundry brook; and Annie Kligman for damages caused by flooded cellar.

L. V. Niles was granted an apportionment of betterment assessment on Carver road.

The public works committee recommended leave to withdraw on sewer in South street, and favored $897 for sidewalk and curbing on Chapel street.

Hearings were ordered on the laying out of Fredena road; for a building line on Fredena road; for a sewer on Fredena road; for a building line and laying out of Dartmouth street.

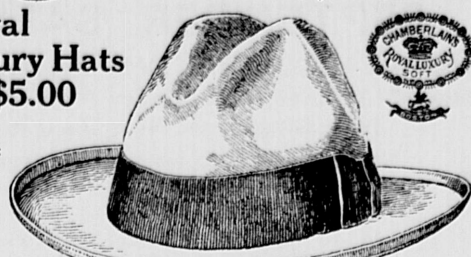

Various streets were ordered sprinkled.

5176 MEN REGISTER HERE

Newton Makes Fine Showing Few Slackers Here

The proceedings of Registration Day went off very quietly, without any hitch or disturbance, but with a very heavy registration. The State House estimate of the number to be expected in Newton was 4573. The number of names received up to this noon was 5176.

It is greatly to the credit of the city that so big a list of names was secured in one day. Up to the time the country went to war, it would hardly have been regarded as possible. The registration must be largest where there is the most popular intelligence and education, where the fewest number of people either don't know of the requirements or have to be brought in. Newton is clearly a city where there are very few slackers, and also few who do not understand the requirements of the situation.

The list is not yet complete. Names are coming in by every mail.

The classifications show 5087 white men, 74 colored, 14 Orientals, and one Indian. The totals of aliens shown in the table below include 408 who have declared their intention of becoming citizens, and 627 who have not made such declarations. Our column in the table below giving the naturalized citizens includes 129 who became citizens through the naturalization of their fathers.

The questionnaire papers are expected to go out next week. Arrangements will be made by the Legal Advisory Board by which the registrants can get advice on the making out of their papers. They will be in session at West Newton, and quite likely arrangements will be made for sessions at the other villages, but this is not yet announced.

There was considerable waiting at the registration places Thursday morning. At one time there were 75 men waiting at Precinct 2, Newtonville, and 60 men at West Newton. In nearly every precinct 20 to 30 men were waiting. It would have been better had more assistants been appointed, and there were plenty of citizens who would gladly have served. The arrangements were, however, very systematic, and the work was completed so promptly that all the figures had been turned in to the office of the Draft Board at 1 A.M. It was a night of hard work for all.

The proportion of natives to aliens and naturalized citizens is of interest. It will be noted that there are 3453 natives, 688 citizens through naturalization, and 1035 aliens.

Two bands obtained from Commonwealth Pier about the city giving that air of festival which the government suggested.

Interpreters were on hand to deal with aliens. No objections of any kind were encountered. It seems wonderful that this mobilization of the man power of the nation, in which every citizen offers his time and life to the government, can be had with so little evidence of friction or feeling.

Below are given the totals for the various precincts:—

STATE GUARD CALLED ON

Members of the State Guard were called from Headquarters to Corey Hill, Brookline in an emergency to do guard duty at Influenza Camp, Thursday night.

Privates Carley, Blanchard, Bullen, Dame, Minard, Hart, and Burr went out with Corp. Mead in charge.

On Wednesday night Sergt. Morton and 25 members were ordered out suddenly for the same purpose. The Guard's truck "Mabel" was also requisitioned with Private Edwards as driver.

The guard work at the camp promises to last for some weeks while this epidemic continues. Company A of the 11th Infantry of the Guard is expected to furnish about ten men for regular day and night duty. The disease is contagious so that people have to be kept away, and there is more or less help to be given about the camp.

To the Republicans of Newton

We, the undersigned Republican voters of the city of Newton, heartily endorse the candidacy of FREDERIC P. BARNES for Representative to the Legislature from Newton.

MAJOR BARNES has been a resident of this city for over forty years and recently retired from business. We believe that his long and successful business experience eminently qualifies him for this position. In addition to his business record, he has served the State in the Militia and National Guard twenty-seven years.

DR. PERSON AT CAMP DEVENS

Rev. Dr. H. Grant Person, pastor of Eliot Church, has leave of absence from his parish work until January 1, while he is carrying on Y. M. C. A. work at Camp Devens. Dr. Person is to be religious secretary at one of the Red Triangle huts, having charge of the work at that building. He will preach on Sundays and give several addresses in the week, and carry on all the various activities that go with this work.

Dr. Person was active in Y. M. C. A. work in college, so this will be no new work for him. He spent some days at Camp Devens last summer, which resulted in an urgent appeal that he take up this patriotic service for a longer period. Dr. Person will be intimately associated with the soldiers, eating at their mess halls, and sharing their life in all possible ways. Dean Wood of the Gordon Bible College of Boston is to be the supply at Eliot church next Sunday.

BENTLEY NAMED ON DRAFT BOARD

Free Legal Advice for Registrants on Questionnaires

The vacancy in the Local Exemption Board which has existed for several months since the resignation of Mr. Bernard Early, was filled this week, when Governor McCall's nomination of ex-alderman Leverett D. G. Bentley, was approved by the Washington authorities.

Mr. Bentley qualified on Wednesday and is now in active service. Mr. Bentley

MR. LEVERETT D. G. BENTLEY Appointed Member of Exemption Board

ley is the representative of the Boston Globe at the State House and has been in close touch with military matters. He served in the Newton board of aldermen in 1916.

The Exemption Board has been an exceedingly busy spot the past week, following the registration of last week Thursday. With 5236 registration cards to be arranged, numbered, copied, and with five lists to be made, all within 48 hours, the government set an impossible task for a district as large as Newton. Over 30 representative men volunteered their services for work on Sunday, the Martin Manufacturing Co. gave the services of six of its office force on Saturday, and there has been day and night work all this week.

The questionnaires have been ordered sent to every registrant between the ages of 19 and 36, numbering well over 1900, and began going out in daily bunches of about 200 beginning yesterday. Seven days is allowed from the date of the questionnaire for action by the registrant, so that by the time the last bunch of questionnaires are sent out, the returns will be coming in from the first.

The Legal Advisory Board have appointed numerous advisors to assist in giving information needed in filling out draft questionnaires, and these advisors will be present every week day on and after Saturday, September 21st, at the times and places stated below.

THIS Junior Department of Lasell Seminary, will train girls under fifteen years, giving work through first year High School.

For the present the Junior Department will be housed in Carpenter Hall, one of the attractive buildings of Lasell Seminary.

Thoroughly trained and experienced teachers have been engaged to have charge of the school and full advantage will be taken of the possibilities of help from the equipment and large faculty of Lasell.

The school session for day pupils, from nine till five o'clock, will consist of study, recitation, manual training, exercise, play and rest periods, planned so as to give a normal healthy, symmetrical development. Arrangements may be made by which the school automobile will transport day pupils.

Classes will be conducted largely in open air classrooms.

Day pupils may take part work if desired; as the morning session of work, or the afternoon session of supervised play, or lessons in music, art, French, or handicrafts.

Boys under ten will be welcomed as day pupils.

HAYES-PUTNAM WEDDING

In the presence of the members of their families only, Miss Dorothy Putnam, the daughter of Mrs. Frederick H. Putnam of Brookline and Lt. Harold Hayes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert W. Hayes of Waban, were married Saturday afternoon in the Congregational Church in Newton Highlands by the Rev. Dr. George Smart. The bride, who wore a street costume, was given in marriage by Mr. John McKim, a friend of the family, and had no attendants. The bridegroom was also unattended, as his nearest friends are all at the front. A reception followed at the Waban Neighborhood Club, which was largely attended, as both the bride and bridegroom passed their childhood in Waban. Among the guests were members of Company B of the Newton constabulary, of which the bridegroom was a lieutenant before he entered the army.

THE "FIGHTING FOURTH"

A Strong Organization Effected to Raise $5,000,000 Liberty Loan in Newton

The "Fighting Fourth" Liberty Loan spirit is already rife in Newton, though the rivalry will be of the friendliest nature. But the several communities which make up this city are all out to surpass each other in the grand total rolled up for Uncle Sam and the fighting boys. Inspired by the glorious news from the fighting front and with the experience of past campaigns to guide them, the committees expect to make such a canvas as this city never saw and, no matter what the quota may be, to put Newton in the front ranks of the patriotic cities of America.

The first gun will be fired on Thursday evening next, when all the workers, to the number of several hundred will meet at the Newton Club for a grand rally. Robert S. Weeks, a fine speaker who also has the knowledge of a first-rate banker, will be the principal speaker. On Saturday the twenty-eighth, when the drive begins, the town will blossom out in a fine array of posters making their appeal through the eye.

The canvassers will then be turned loose and every house in town will be visited. In addition, there will be booths in many of the villages, the schools will have their meetings, and the banks and other places will be ready for the patriotic. He will indeed be deaf, dumb and blind who does not know that there is something doing and that the something is "The Fighting Loan" napped in honor of the boys who are licking the Hun.

The slogan of the campaign will be "Buy Early." It is taken for granted that every one is going to buy the most bonds he possibly can but it is very important that the subscription be made as soon as possible. If the campaign can be wound up quickly and enthusiastically it will be a splendid message to our boys over there and will give the Kaiser a jolt that may save some of the fighting. This is a blow those of us at home can deliver and it should be as short and sharp and decisive as President Wilson's reply to Austria. Put your dollars into the game just as quickly as you can.

Another thing to be remembered is that Newton will have a tidy sum to raise. If the loan is a six billion proposition. Newton's quota will be some five millions, perhaps more. This is a good deal but not too much for a rich place like Newton. But if her people do their buying elsewhere and do not be sure that their home city gets the credit, she will be left in the final accounting. Of course the main thing is for Uncle Sam to get the money but who among us wants it said that Newton did not do its share? Therefore the word is "Buy in Newton if possible, but, if for good reasons, you prefer to do your business elsewhere be sure that your subscription is credited to Newton. Take that much trouble for your home city's reputation.

The executive committee for the campaign consists of the Hon. Seward W. Jones, chairman, Frank L. Richardson, secretary and H. H. Bemis. Each village is in charge of a chairman, assisted by captains, who have under them the solicitors. Probably the workers all told will number something like five hundred. Some of the village organizations, with their chairman and captains are given below; the record will be completed in these columns next week in plenty of time for every one to know who is managing the business in his own community.

A special committee is handling the publicity. This is composed of Henry Whitmore, chairman, and the following: Newton, Herbert G. Pratt (Ward 1) and Frank E. Perkins (Ward 7); Newtonville, Fred E. Mann; West Newton, Arthur C. Dunmore; Auburndale, Charles B. Floyd; Waban, Lawrence Allen; Newton Highlands W. H. Chapple; Newton Lower Falls, George M. Heathcote; Newton Centre, A. H. McAusland; Chestnut Hill, H. H. Bemis; Oak Hill, A. C. Badger. These gentlemen, with others for the villages not named, will have charge of the publicity work in their respective localities.

The first of the Liberty Loan organizations to get actively at work is that of the special committee of women headed by Mrs. Frank H. Stewart, with Mrs. Bertram Taylor in charge of publicity. This committee will have charge of meetings, the work in the schools and at the big fair on Claflin Field, as well as among the women's clubs.

The ward one Liberty Loan committee is as follows: Joseph B. Jamieson, chairman; A. Byfield, Grassmere street, Howard Norton, Oakleigh road; P. A. Murray, Washington street; B. S. Hinckley, Park street; Walter Sharp, Waverley avenue; Walter Barker, Hyde avenue; George Angier, Ruthven road; Fred A. Gay, Vernon street; F. W. Dana, Church street.

Newtonville has this organization: Fred M. Blanchard, chairman; James A. Stafford, vice-chairman and manager; Mrs. W. H. Allen, chairman Ladies Committee; W. N. Dudley, scoutmaster; W. H. Zoller, supplies; and these captains: A. D. Auryansen, W. H. Zoller, Robert G. Brown, Albert P. Carter, Augustus Remington, Charles W. Ryder, Clarence McDavitt, Lincoln Righter.

Auburndale's committee is headed by J. W. Weinberg and has as captains W. J. Spaulding, Wolcott street; H. Fisher, Grove street; H. A. Hansen, Cheswick road; W. S. Wagner, Woodland road; L. D. McNutt, Williston road; J. A. Furbish, Wolcott street; W. C. Eddy, Woodbine street, F. L. H. Nason, Woodland road; Thomas J. Lyons, Auburn street.

A. H. Elder is chairman of the Newton Highlands organization, Mrs. Chas. G. Wetherbee represents the women, W. D. K. Taylor, Boy Scout master, and the team captains are: R. F. Alvord, Woodcliff road; H. W. Ball, Walnut street, L. Y. Banker, Hillside road, C. A. Clark, Harrison street, C. W. Dillaway, Endicott street, H. P. Gray, Centre street, J. M. O. Hewitt, Standish street, James Kingman, Fisher avenue, E. C. Lewis, Erie avenue, C. W. Mercer, Erie avenue.

DEATH OF ALBERT E. FOGWILL

The death took place September 12 of Albert E. Fogwill at his home on Crescent street, Auburndale. He was born in South Boston but lived at Auburndale since very early life. He was for 20 years in the employ of the Boston and Albany railroad, recently as a conductor, and was a man of high integrity and much respected. He returned to work about two months ago, after an illness, and apparently was in good health, when he came back home Tuesday with a sick turn and died Thursday of heart failure. He was an attendant at the Baptist Church of West Newton, the pastor of which, Rev. T. S. Roy, officiated at the funeral. The Pilgrim quartet of Boston sang "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere," "Nearer My God to Thee," "Just Beyond the Hilltop" and "God Be With You Till We Meet Again." There were many flowers. The bearers were from the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. He leaves his wife, who was Margaret Farrell of Lower Falls, three daughters, Mrs. Richard Davis, and Misses Gladys and Irene, and a son, William. He is also survived by his mother, Mrs. Susan Fogwill, three sisters, Mrs. M. E. Beardsley, and Mrs. W. A. Swett, and Mrs. W. H. Allen of Allston, and two brothers, William U. and Stephen. This is the first break in the Fogwill family in 30 years.

DEATH OF HOWARD MITCHELL

Howard Frederic Mitchell, the only son of Chief of Police Frederic M. Mitchell and Mrs. Mitchell, died Monday at the Bumkin Island naval training camp from grip. His parents had just returned from Vermont.

Howard Mitchell was probably the youngest bank treasurer in this section, having been appointed to that office in the Needham Trust Company before his 21st birthday.

He was born in Newton November 1, 1896, and was graduated from the Newton Technical High School in 1914. He immediately entered the employ of the Newton Trust Company and soon became assistant cashier of the company's Auburndale office. Then he received the Needham appointment. On June 14 he enlisted in the navy as a seaman and had been selected to attend the next cadet school for ensigns at Cambridge.

His parents and a sister survive him. The family home is at Adella avenue, West Newton.

The funeral was conducted at the Central Congregational Church by Rev. D. Brewster Eddy. A detail of 18 soldiers from Bumkin Island escorted the body to the Newton Cemetery, and fired the volleys over the grave, while a bugler sounded taps.

As the funeral passed the military reservation at the Technical High School, Capt. Johnson, in charge of 300 soldiers, turned out the guard, who stood at attention.

GOOD GOVERNMENT CLUB

The Auburndale Good Government Club will hold a public meeting in Society Hall at eight o'clock, Saturday, September twenty-first, for the consideration of the candidates who are up for nomination at the primaries next week. Hon. Robert Luce and Mayor Childs, congressional candidates, have promised to be present and address the meeting, as will Alderman Early and other candidates for the state legislature.

The candidates for Congress have been requested to reply to the following questions:

Will you work for the elimination of all congressional committees that do not have legitimate legislative work to do?

Do you favor and will you work for an executive budget system?

Do you believe that the railroads should remain permanently under federal control?

Would you favor compulsory military training in time of peace?

What is your attitude toward the following methods of raising revenue for paying government expenses and the retirement of the Liberty Bonds—import duties, graduated income tax, land value tax?

This should be of great interest to all Newton voters.

CLARK-MURRAY WEDDING

Miss Alma H. Murray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Murray of Washington street, and Lieut. Edwin C. Clark of Northampton, now stationed at Camp Devens, were married Sunday at the parochial residence of the Church of Our Lady, by the pastor, Rev. L. T. Slattery. The ceremony had been planned for next Saturday but the date was advanced so that the bride's brother, Ensign Stuart Murray, of the navy could attend, he being present on a five hours' furlough. The matron of honor was the bride's sister, Mrs. S. C. Noland, and Sergt. Paul Murray, brother of the bride, of the Supply Company of Camp Devens, was best man.

ALLEGED FALSIFYING

A charge of falsifying his questionnaire, under the selective draft act, has been lodged against L. F. Curtis of Newton, prominent member of the Boston Athletic Association, and New England transpothing champion. He was arraigned before United States Commissioner Hayes and pleaded not guilty and was held in $5000 bail, which was supplied by his father, Thomas P. Curtis.

To the Republican Voters of Newton

We favor the re-nomination of Representative Leland Powers as one of our Representatives from Newton to the General Court. His record during his first year was most excellent, and he is clearly entitled to a re-nomination in the Republican primaries on September 24th.

WILSON-SPENCE

A mid-September wedding was that of Miss Helen April Spence and Mr. Raymond Everett Wilson, which took place on Wednesday evening at 50 Maple street, Auburndale, the home of the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Johannesson (Annie S. Spence). The bride is the daughter of William Brown Spence, by whom she was given in marriage. The officiating clergyman was Rev. William Bradley Whitney, pastor of the Mill Memorial Church in Allston. The bride had two attendants, Miss Mabel E. Wilson, sister of the bridegroom, who was maid of honor, and Miss Lewette Hurst Spence, a sister, who was bridesmaid. Two nieces, Rae and Ruth Johannesson, were flower girls. The best man was Henry H. Nelson, of Jamaica Plain, and for the reception after the ceremony the ushers were Russell Johannesson, Howard Mahler of Arlington, William Brown Spence, Jr., of Needham, and Everett Sanders of Middleboro. An orchestra played throughout the evening. The bridegroom, Mr. Wilson, is from Huddersfield, Eng., but recently has made his home in Allston. He is a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, class of 1912, and since then has been engaged in engineering. He and his bride have gone to the Delaware Water Gap, as the first stage of their wedding journey, and from there will go to Niagara Falls, enroute to Chicago, which is to be their future home.

THE GREAT MYSTERY FEATURE

—AT—

The Newton War Fair, Claflin Field, Newtonville SATURDAY, OCTOBER 5

Will be the fitting climax to the greatest fair ever held in Newton. The War Fair will show the war work being done in Newton, the vegetables raised in Newton war gardens, the work being done by the War Societies and exhibit after exhibit both interesting and instructive, but—THE GREAT MYSTERY FEATURE will be a surprise even to those who have the War Fair in charge. The secret of it is locked in the breasts of a few and the key has been thrown away. 'Till the day of the Fair THE GREAT MYSTERY FEATURE will remain a mystery! 'Tis the titivating touch of the The Fair one to tantalize and titillate the thirst of curiosity. Weather permitting it will be the thrill of The Fair. Be sure you get your Admission Tag. Get it as early as you can. Don't wait until the supply is exhausted. Hang on to it when you get it. Plan to spend the day at The Fair. There will be plenty to see and food to eat.

Be There When THE GREAT MYSTERY FEATURE Is Disclosed

P. S. Every Newtonian who can make a war garden exhibition or an exhibition of any kind of war work, or one having a war interest, is asked to communicate at once with the Newton Public Safety Committee, 893 Washington St., Newtonville; Telephones Newton North 1985 and 1986. The more exhibits the better the Fair. Be an exhibitor, it may be you will take a premium.

EDITORIAL

We hope the city government will observe in practice as well as theory, the request of the national authorities, that no new work be authorized on streets, sidewalks, sewers, etc., during the war. The few persons benefited by this kind of work should be willing, in view of the country's necessities, to postpone the gratification of their wishes until a more favorable time. It should also be pointed out that the same principle should apply whether the sum is small or large.

The aldermen clearly reflect the unanimous sentiment of this city, in authorizing the contract with the United States government for the continued training of the student-soldiers at our High School for the ensuing school year. Incidentally the action of the national government, is a most gratifying endorsement of the work accomplished by our High Schools and will be so interpreted by the community.

Alderman Whidden has the right idea in attempting to clarify the Building Code. There is no valid reason why the old Woodland Park Hotel should not be used for school and dormitory purposes, without extraordinary alterations. The everyday citizen cannot see any great change in either the life or fire hazard between the old and new use of this building.

Are you getting ready for the Fourth Liberty Loan?

With five young men from this city on the death list this week in the service of the country, our hearts grow exceedingly tender towards the loved ones they leave to mourn their untimely death. And yet, if we could climb high enough in the spiritual world to obtain a larger and more comprehensive view, we are sure there would be rejoicing over the fact that these young men have given of their best that Christianity and humanity may exist in this wicked old world. We should then know, that length of years, is not the true measure of value, and that these young men, in the brief span of their lives, have truly merited the words of the Master, "Well done, good and faithful servant."

There is an interesting scrap for Republican nominations for representative to the General Court at the primary on Tuesday, six candidates being in the field for three nominations. Representative Leland Powers is the only candidate for renomination and as he has been endorsed by all but one of the other candidates and has made such an excellent record the past year on Beacon Hill there should be no question as to his nomination. For one of the other nominations, the city is to be congratulated on the can-

EARLY for REPRESENTATIVE

The Newton Republicans should nominate as one of the Representatives to the General Court from this city

MR. BERNARD EARLY

President of the Newton Board of Aldermen, because he has a thorough knowledge of the city and its needs, gained from eight years' service in the board (two years as its President); twelve years' service as trustee of the Newton Hospital; six years' service on Investment Board of Newton Savings Bank; together with years of service as an assessor; appointed by the late Governor Guild on Taxation Commission; employed as a Real Estate Appraiser for the Metropolitan Park Commission; all of which indicate that Mr. Early possesses a thorough knowledge of the city and its present day needs. didacy of President Bernard Early of the Board of Aldermen. Mr. Early stands head and shoulders above all the other candidates in his experience in municipal affairs and knowledge of the city and which when combined with plenty of good judgment and common sense, will make him a valuable man at the State House.

We have no recommendation to make among the other candidates for third place, altho we deprecate the advent of the Mass. Anti-Saloon League into this matter. The League should keep its hands off Newton politics, having had one salutary lesson, and we are amply qualified to select proper men for the State House without advice from outside sources.

Governor McCall is to be warmly commended for his nomination of Alderman Leverett Bentley as a member of the Local Exemption Board for Newton. Mr. Bentley not only is careful and conscientious in his judgments, but, in addition, has a thorough knowledge of the city and a wide acquaintance, which will be invaluable in the work of the board.

There is but little interest being taken in the state primary next week, the absence of contests for United States senator and for Governor on the Republican ticket, being as much responsible for this condition as anything else.

The state is indeed, fortunate, that it is sure to have the services of United States senator, of Hon. John W. Weeks of this city, and as Governor of Hon. Calvin Coolidge. They honor the Commonwealth as well as themselves by their respective candidacies. The contest for lieutenant governor between Speaker Cox and former Councilor Guy A. Ham, is attracting little attention. Mr. Ham made many friends by his attitude when defeated by Mr. Coolidge for this office a few years ago. Everybody likes a good loser, and when to that qualification is added ability, and an alliance with the best elements of the Republican party, it would seem as if this should be Mr. Ham's year for the nomination. Representative J. Weston Allen of this city is Newton's candidate for attorney general and has received the hearty endorsement of the leading lawyers all over the Commonwealth. He should receive a handsome vote in his home city because we know he is exceptionally well fitted for the office and his splendid record as a constructive legislator, is a sufficient guarantee of the service he can and will render as attorney-general.

For Congress, straight Republicans will find fault with both the leading candidates for the office, Mayor Childs of this city and former Lieut. Governor Robert Luce of Waltham. We believe, however, that Mayor Childs would make a far better candidate for the party than Mr. Luce, for if nominated, there will be only perfunctory opposition by the Democratic party, where Mr. Childs is greatly admired, while if Mr. Luce is successful, he will be bitterly fought and may be defeated.

For County officers, County Treasurer J. O. Hayden and Register of Probate Fred M. Esty should be strongly endorsed. In fact, these officers ought not to submit their political fortunes to a popular vote, and would not, if the short ballot was in vogue. The only thing to do, under present circumstances, is to give them such a vote as to discourage all opposition in the future.

WRIGHT-FARLEY

The marriage took place Tuesday at the home of the bride at 3 P. M., of Miss Emily Farley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Farley of Central street, Auburndale, and Mr. Stephen Edward Wright of Washington, D. C., son of Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Wright. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Julius Sauber of St. Stephen's Church, Boston. The best man was Mr. W. Clayton Carpenter of Washington and the matron of honor was the bride's sister, Mrs. P. Massey of Winchester, Va.

The bridesmaids were Miss Mary Hazelton of Wellesley Hills, Miss Mary A. Wright, sister of the groom, of Providence, R. I., and Miss Ada Whitmore, cousin of the bride, of West Newton. The ushers were Lieut. Arthur F. Farley, brother of the bride, of Auburndale, Elmer P. Wright, of the Brown University, R. O. T. C., Providence, R. I., brother of the groom, Mortimer T. Farley, cousin of the bride, of Weston, Alan W. Burke, of the R. O. T. C. of the Mass. Institute of Technology, of Pittsfield, and Nelson Nowell, cousin of the bride, of Honolulu. The flower boy was William P. Massey, Jr., and the flower girl was Helen Massey, the nephew and niece of the bride and both of Winchester, Va.

The bride wore a gown of white satin, with tulle of point applique lace, and square train, and she carried a bouquet of white pansies with lilies of the valley. The maid of honor wore pink orchid organdy, and leg-horn hat, and carried a basket of pink roses and maiden hair ferns. The bridesmaids wore pale pink orchid pink organdy with tulle, and carried baskets of roses and maiden hair.

The house was decorated with blue larkspur, pink roses and pink gladioli, with ferns, palms, asters and chrysanthemums. A string quartet furnished music. A reception was held at the bride's home, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Farley assisting the newly married couple in welcoming the guests. Mr. and Mrs. Wright are to live at Washington, D. C.

THREE DEATHS IN ONE FAMILY

Sorrow has come very fast to the Fogwill family of Auburndale and West Newton the past week. Clarence K. Fogwill died last night at Newton Hospital after a brief illness, and today the death took place of Mrs. Eva C. Fogwill, wife of William U. Fogwill. Only last week, as told in another column, another brother of the family, Albert E. Fogwill, passed away.

Clarence Fogwill, who was a chauffeur, lived with his mother on Washington street. He leaves a wife, Mrs. Eva Fogwill leaves beside her husband, two daughters, Hazel L. and Susanna M.

Funeral services for Clarence Fogwill will be held at the Lincoln Park Baptist Church, Rev. Thos. L. Roy, officiating. The service for Mrs. Eva Fogwill will be held at 3.30 at the Church of the Messiah, Rev. Percival M. Wood, officiating. Burial at Newton Cemetery.

CITY HALL

Street Commissioner George E. Stuart as arbitrator for the striking city laborers at Waltham settled a strike last week Thursday which had lasted for three weeks to the satisfaction of all concerned.

WEST NEWTON WAR WORK

Women's Organizations Report Benificent Activity

The women's war work in West Newton is carried on through the instrumentality of two organizations, independent, but working in harmony, to thoroughly cover the field. The Soldiers' Aid has the surgical dressings, sewing and similar activities and the Knitting Committee, the making of knitted goods for the army and navy. Last February, a committee of men raised the money to finance the work of the women's organizations for a year. Mr. John W. Estabrook being its treasurer.

Last week, the officers of both of the women's organizations reported upon their activities for the year past.

THE SOLDIERS' AID

Closes a Year of Great Activity—Sewing Room Alone Turns Out Over 7500 Garments—A Great Quantity of Surgical Dressings

The Soldiers' Aid, because of the government's request, may not report in print the number of surgical dressings made, which was very large, but it may be said that the sewing room turned out 1767 large garments and 5781 smaller articles and the children contributed splendidly to the grand total. Mrs. Arthur G. Hosmer is president of the Soldiers' Aid and her report is such an earnest and effective plea for continued effort on the part of women in their work of helping win the war that a part of it is printed below. It bears a message as patriotic and urgent to all women as to the members of her particular society. The other officers are: Mrs. Sydney R. Thomas, treasurer; Mrs. Ellyer Peabody, and Mrs. Joseph Lovell, vice-presidents; and Miss Edith Wadsworth, secretary.

THE KNITTING COMMITTEE

Over 10,000 Articles Furnished the Fighting Men the Last Year—Some Special Features

The Knitting Committee is headed by Mrs. John W. Weeks, chairman; Mrs. W. A. Young is secretary and other members are Mrs. Thomas A. Crimmins, Mrs. L. A. Kimberly, and Mrs. Henry Wimmer. Mrs. Young, in her report for the committee, said in part:

"From September 1, 1917 to September 1, 1918, we have sent off 1048 articles, including sweaters, both with and without sleeves, helmets, wristers, and socks. These represent home work done at odd times and at the expense of many hours of labor. To show the scope of the work, I am giving the following details: 'We have fitted out completely two destroyers, the 'Jarvis' and the 'Kimberly,' and given some articles to the destroyer 'Little.' To Bruce Ware's ship and to a United States submarine. Several hundred things have been sent direct to France—to the batteries of the 101st Field Artillery, and to headquarters troop, 26th division, for distribution. Others have gone to Hospital No. 11, Cape May; many to the Special Aid, for aviators; to the Massachusetts naval camps and to the Charlestown Navy Yard, where they have been put, immediately on destroyers and other ships. A few things have gone to the Newton Committee of Public Safety and many to the Red Cross and Junior Red Cross and last, but not least, many warm knitted things to our West Newton boys, now on the firing line over-seas or to boys in camp preparatory to their going across. 'In the majority of cases, except of course the articles given the Red Cross, these 10,487 things have been sent on request of some person in authority, and have been put to immediate use by the boys in service who, at that time, had received no knitted articles from any other organization. We think that has been the best time we feel sure that we can do and must do even more for the warmth and comfort of our boys 'over there' in the coming winter or until this frightful war comes to an end."

A STIRRING APPEAL

Mrs. Hosmer Sounds the Call to the Women for Greater Effort in this Wonderful Year—The Need Very Great

In her report as president of Soldiers' Aid of West Newton, Mrs. Arthur G. Hosmer spoke, in part, as follows:

"A new year lies before us, a year so full of possibilities and the promise of great things, that we almost hold our breath in anticipation of what may happen. Many think that it is to be the most wonderful year in the history of the world. Whatever takes place, one thing is certain: It is going to be a year of great demands and we are going to be asked to give ourselves more unselfishly to the 'Great Cause' than ever before. 'Are we going to be equal to those demands?' Are we going to remember that the old world lies behind us, and out of this strife and blood-shed, a new world has been born with new conditions and new adjustments to be made? Let us hope so, for in no other way can we do our full part."

FORM OF ADMINISTRATOR'S NOTICE TO CREDITORS OF INSOLVENT ESTATE

Estate of Olive J. Schwartz late of Newton in the County of Middlesex, deceased, intestate, represented insolvent. THE Probate Court for said County will receive and examine all claims of creditors against the estate of said Olive J. Schwartz and notice is hereby given that six months from the 11th day of September A. D. 1918, are allowed to creditors to present and prove their claims against said estate, and that the Court will receive and examine the claims of creditors at Cambridge, on the 11th day of October 1918, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, and at Cambridge, on the 11th day of March 1919, at nine o'clock in the forenoon.

WALTER T. HANNIGAN, Administrator.

"Reports have been circulated, during the summer, that less work is needed. Upon investigation, I find that there is no authority for such rumors. False and misleading information is very dangerous, for it often keeps away from our workrooms many well meaning people, who really feel that their extra time is more needed elsewhere.

"At times there may be a little lull in certain kinds of work, for adjustment and better planning, but there is always work of some kind waiting to be done and we hope that the members of The Soldiers' Aid will try hard to see that we have dependable service from them. That means the day in and day out, week in and week out, kind of service, the kind that does not allow outside things to interfere with it. We want you to give every hour that you can squeeze out of your home-work. Let us endeavor to give at least (more if possible) but at least eight hours a week, or one good American day's work, to the boys who are doing so much for us. All day Wednesday and Friday, with Thursday evening, will furnish plenty of opportunity for adjustment of hours.

"One of our number, a mother whose only son is serving on the other side, said to me one day: 'I shall always feel so much nearer to the women who work down here. We mothers do not want sympathy, but it seems as though some people are taking this war very lightly. Don't they realize that it is our sons who are fighting and working for them?' I think of her words very often when I see the many brave mothers coming here so regularly, day after day, with bright faces often hiding anxious hearts, and feel that, while we cannot give them spoken sympathy, we can, by our presence, let them know that we understand, and are working with our whole hearts for their boys, our boys, who are giving their beautiful youth, if not their lives, that we may continue to live in peace and comfort.

"It is hard sometimes to understand how grown-up people can view things as they do and must need a lesson from youth to show them the way. We glory in the spirit of one of our boys who writes home that he has refused his furlough because of the great need of the work he is doing, that perhaps 'some fellows over there' will lose their lives for the need of what he can make in the time spent on a vacation. Do we always remember that when we make our engagements? We can heartily sympathize with the youth who cries out against the strikers: 'What do the American people mean by cutting off our supplies?' If I could only show them one battle field, only one, they would never rest until they had put this frightfulness behind them."

"These are the sermons preached by boyish lips. Do we always measure up to their standard? It is a searching question, but let us ask it of ourselves and be very honest in our answer. 'May we all pull together, in splendid team work, until the all out signal is sounded, and our returning soldiers bring us the glorious tidings that the world war is ended.'"

VICTORY COMING

"Look forward; not back."

There's an Hour of Victory coming!
Spite the rage of blasphemous Hun,
When this savage, murderous conflict
By leagued Allies will be won!
When returning come Our Heroes,
"Old Glory" flaunting high,
Thousands the Cross of Honor wear,
And glad cheers rend the sky!
Voices Divine are calling
Win the War!
Lightning from war-clouds falling,
Win the War!
Stout hearts heroic beat
Answering with swift winged feet
Boldly the foe to meet—
And Win the War!

There's an Hour of Victory coming!
Cloud and fire fast moving on O'er the deserts drear with woes and fear
To the Canaan to be won—
Though Jordan deep its floods upraise
God's hosts of th'Right and True
Press on triumphant, shouting praise,
Proud Jericho walls crashed through!
Old Glory dust ne'er trailing
Wins the War!
In no just cause e'er failing,
Wins the War!
Follow the gleam—and drums!
The wireless message hums
The "Golden Age" thus comes!
Win the War!

There's an Hour of Victory coming!
You can hear its tramp afar,
Ever nearer—nearer—pressing on,
Earth shaking with the jar
Of conquering troops advancing,
Their righteous cause confirmed,
Faith's vision, clear, entrancing—
No mirage 'tis, discerned!
Fight not to "beat the air"
Win the War!

There's an Hour of Victory coming!
At home, and "Over There"
Win the War!
Delusions fright the soul,
Illusion sights the goal—
Victory to crown the whole,
Win the War!

There's an Hour of Victory coming!
With a truth 'tillume the world,
That souls of men must aye be free,
Where Old Glory is unfurled!
And "The Day! The Day!" will surely rise

When released from tyrant's thrall,
All Nations will for peace unite,
And obey proud Victory's call!
Our Country's but begun!
Win the War!

Fight we 'till wars are done,
Win the War!
Shout—tyrants all to warn,
World Liberty is born!
Dawn glids the Hills of Morn!
Win the War!

PATRIOTIC PARADE

A Patriotic parade has been arranged by the Italian Societies of Newton to take place Saturday, starting at Newton Corner. It will pass through Washington street to West Newton thence through Watertown, Adams, West, and Cook streets to Newton Corner. All good citizens are requested to display flags and do honor to our allies. There will be flag raisings at West Newton common and on Adams street. The Constabulary Company or the State Guard will precede the parade starting from the armory.

Enough to Go Around.

Don't imagine that you're getting all the hard luck or all the good luck, because that never happened to anybody and never will.

Cottage Cheese

In every household there are times when there is an accumulation of sour milk. Used in cooking every bit of nutriment is utilized so it is advisable to use as much as possible in muffins and cake.

An excess can be made into cottage cheese as follows:

Sour Milk Cheese

Heat milk slowly until it separates. Watch carefully as overheating toughens cheese. Drain through fine strainer. Turn into bowl and add salt and pepper, also a little cream, sour or sweet, or a little melted butter. To this may be added chopped pimento, nuts, raisins, or olives, as desired, when using.

Cottage Cheese is mild in flavor and can be combined to advantage with other foods, making many all round dishes.

It may be mixed with a small quantity of left over ham or corned beef, finely ground, the whole seasoned with prepared mustard. Serve in slices, or turn mold out on a border of lettuce leaves or hot spinach.

Cheese and Beet Salad

2 C Cottage Cheese
1 C pickled beets, cut up
Mix and add Mayonnaise dressing. Serve on crisp lettuce.

COPLEY THEATRE—For the second week of the third season of the Henry Jewett Players at the Copley Theatre, the play will be "The Man Who Went," a romantic war-time drama by W. A. Tremayne. This will be its first production in Boston. "The Man Who Went" has been truthfully called a companion piece to "The Man Who Stayed at Home." Its action takes place in England during the early days of the war, just at the moment when the Germans are concentrating all their efforts against the English and are scheming to get to England and to prevent the shipment of troops to the Continent by every means in their power.

HOME FROM BATTLE FRONT

Rev. Brewer Eddy Returns After Visiting Battle Grounds Investigates Y. M. C. A. Work and Is Under Fire.

Rev. D. Brewer Eddy of Newtonville has returned to this country after a two months' trip to Europe, where he went for the purpose of investigating the Y. M. C. A. Red Triangle work for the soldiers, and to collect material to use in addresses he will give all over the country in the coming drive for the war funds.

Mr. Eddy was one of a few Americans who were invited by the British Ministry of Information to visit the battle fields and observe the progress of the war work. He went close to the battle line in four of the prominent fighting sectors in France and Flanders. The party was taken up to within a mile of the front trenches and into territory where shells were constantly flying and occasionally exploding uncomfortably near. He was at Chateau Thierry a few days after the fierce fighting there in which the American boys took so glorious a part. Mr. Eddy also visited Ypres, Vimy Ridge, Arras, and other places so familiar in the dispatches, and was given a chance to go on the vessels of both British and American fleets.

He found it the impression among both British and French officers that the American forces had turned the day. At the time of the German offensive, the outlook was very dark, but the American troops got to the front in time to save the situation, though handicapped by delays in preparation. The great need now is to send a big airplane force over there, and the American people have all they can do for the next few months for this very critical period.

The ships on which Mr. Eddy travelled had no adventures with submarines. The destroyers that went along were disappointed rather than otherwise that none appeared, as they were prepared to give them an exceedingly warm reception. It was evident that the convoy system for ships, both going and coming, is very thorough. The U-boats realize that if they appear, a destroyer can get to the spot and drop a fatal depth bomb before they can escape out of danger. The American ships have added new features to the war against the submarines, and our people have every reason to be proud of their superb work.

Mr. Eddy says that all who have been at the front have been deeply impressed with the boys of the New England units. They have made good everywhere, have been equal to every emergency and have gone beyond their objectives, although placed in very difficult positions. Mr. Eddy visited a number of the wounded boys of this section in the hospitals, and admires their splendid spirit. In speaking with them he took it for granted that they would soon be returning to this country for a complete recovery. But the boys would not hear to anything like that. They wanted to get back to the front. "No home for me until this thing is over," was what they all said.

COPP-CREESEY NUPTIALS

Miss Grace Helen Copp, daughter of Mrs. William H. H. Whiting of Swampscott, was married to Mr. Charles Lovet Creesey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Creesey, at the groom's home, 24 Abbott street, on Saturday evening at seven o'clock by the Rev. Israel Ainsworth of Trinity Congregational Church, Beachmont; the double ring ceremony being used.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her mother, was attended by her sister, Mrs. Franklin Edwards, Baneroff of Newton as Matron of Honor.

The best man was Ensign Morton R. Creesey of Beverly, a cousin of the groom.

Mr. Creesey, upon the entrance of the United States into the war, resigned his position with the Old Colony Trust Company, Boston, and enlisted in the United States Naval Reserve Force. He is Chief Petty Officer and is stationed at the Little Building on Boylston Street, Boston.

The bride was one of the best known and popular nurses along the North Shore. The young couple received many beautiful and costly gifts.

Are You Wasting Good Coal

in an old, burned out, troublesome range when a new Glenwood would save from 100 to 500 lbs. in every ton? Just figure the saving in dollars for one year and then for five or ten years, and you will quickly see why it will pay now as never before to trade that old stove for an up-to-the-minute Glenwood.

There are hundreds of models to choose from at fair prices. Get a Glenwood and let it pay for itself in the coal it saves.

PARENTS OF
IMPORTANT

The Government is calling on the colleges and technical schools of the country to train officers for the army and navy. Beginning with Oct. 1, 1918, all college students within the draft will continue their college training as soldiers of the United States Army at the expense of the Government. They will receive board, room, books, complete equipment, and $29.99 a month.

Boys should and can enter college before they are 18. The Huntington School offers to boys who have one or two years of school work before they can enter college an opportunity to do two years' work in one. The school will be open the entire year with three sixteen-week terms each year. A full unit course will be given each sixteen weeks. (Circular of information plans complete plan.)

Only boys who are physically able, who have better than average ability, and are otherwise acceptable to the school will be admitted.

The customary program of school work for boys from 15 to 18 will also be continued, as in previous years.

First term opens October 1, 1918.

Fighting Fourth Liberty Loan Facts and Figures

FAMOUS PLAYERS FOR LIBERTY LOAN FILMS

Stars of the opera, the theatrical world and the movies themselves are hard at work on patriotic plays to be used in motion picture houses of the country in connection with the Fighting Fourth Liberty Loan campaign. Under the chairmanship of Adolph Zukor of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry the theatrical forces are being gathered together for the solid support of the United States and the boys "over there".

Mme. Alla Nazimova, Enrico Caruso, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew, Elsie Ferguson, Marguerite Clark, John Barrymore, Billie Burke, Clara Kimball Young, George M. Cohan, and a host of others have taken advantage of the privilege extended them of giving their services in the making of pictures which shall carry a definite message for this country in their time of need.

Peter J. Schaeffer, president of the Motion Picture Exhibitors League of America, Sydney S. Cohen, president of the New York State Motion Picture Exhibitors League, the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, Thomas H. Ince, and other organizations and persons connected with the production or distribution of motion pictures have pledged their full cooperation for the new loan.

The title presentation of all the pictures will be uniform and will bear the official imprint of the Treasury Department together with an inscription to the effect that the picture was made and distributed through the cooperation of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry.

The pictures will be booked to the exhibitors free of charge. It is planned to have each exhibitor run a different picture every day of the drive. The handling of the distribution is expected to be a comparatively simple matter as 3000 prints are to be in circulation.

As all of the negatives and one positive print of each picture must be in the hands of the committee by August 25, the motion picture industry may be said to be given over just now to the production of patriotic films, forming a solid phalanx behind the boys in the trenches and upholding the hands of the government in its prosecution of the war.

Douglas Fairbanks, William S. Hart, William Farnum, Dustin Farnum and many others already have completed their pictures. Upon request of William L. Sherill, president of the Sherman Amusement Corporation, that he write the story for the picture in which Jack Sherill is to be starred, Arthur Brisbane not only wrote the story but also a column editorial commending the plans of the Zukor committee.

In addition to separate pictures featuring Enid Bennett, Dorothy Dalton and Charles Ray, there will be a special picture by Thomas H. Ince in which the director will give his idea of the way to sell Liberty Bonds.

Participation in this work by Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew is especially noteworthy as Mr. Drew's son, S. Rankin Drew, was the first member of the motion picture industry to be killed in France in the service of his country. Mr. and Mrs. Drew are now appearing on the legitimate stage and wrote that they would be glad to make a picture but owing to the fact that they are not now connected with any producing organization had no studio to work in. The Famous Players-Lasky Corporation offered the use of either of its eastern studios and the Drews have promised to have their contributions ready on time. Willard Mack is making a 1,000 foot picture starring Pauline Frederick. D. W. Griffith is personally directing the picture in which Lillian Gish is to appear.

TRANSPORTATION OF OUR TROOPS

"A transport miracle." Sir John MacLay, the British controller of shipping, calls the success with which the United States has moved 1,500,000 American soldiers from their scattered camps on this side the Atlantic to the fighting areas across the seas. Although the seas have been beset by the enemy the loss of life in taking the men across has been almost infinitesimally small. This bit of American efficiency has not only surprised our enemies; we have surprised our friends and even ourselves.

And it isn't all due to the Navy. The railroads have had their share in the achievement. Director General McAdoo seems justified in his statement that while the development of the Railroad Administration requires time, progress has been made toward the goal.

And it isn't all due to the Navy and the railroads, either. It is the Liberty Bond purchasers who made it possible, and back of the purchasers the Liberty Bond. If the people respond to the Fighting Fourth as they did to the First, Second and Third, and there is every indication that they will, there is no telling what other miracles may be accomplished.

WHAT LIBERTY BONDS ARE

What are Liberty Bonds? Liberty Bonds are promises of the United States Government to pay money at a future date with interest; for example, a $50 Third Liberty 4½% bond is a promise to pay the bearer $50 on Sept. 15, 1928, with interest in the meantime at 4½%, i. e., $2.12 per year or $1.06 on every March 15 and September 15 until the bond is paid.

COST OF A SAILOR

The cost of the U. S. Navy per man per day during the first six months of the fiscal year 1918 varied from $4.90 on the larger types of vessels to $5.20 on the smaller types. A $50 Liberty Bond will keep a sailor for 102 days in the larger vessels and for 96 days on the smaller types.

BANKING POWER OF AMERICA

Total resources of the 7,688 national banks and 20,423 trust companies, state banks and savings banks of the United States aggregate over six billion dollars more than a year ago and are greater than in 1916 by nearly twice this sum. Resources of the national banks amount to $18,249,905,000 and the state institutions to $22,275,104,130 totaling $40,525,000,000. With the Fighting Fourth Liberty Loan about to be launched these facts called by The Analyst assume a special significance to the American people.

Of the 7688 national banks in the United States New England has 405. Of the 20,423 state institutions she has 884. The national banks in New England have resources amounting to $1,319,351,000 and the state institutions to $3,295,100,024.

The recent establishment of the United States Council of State Banking Associations to provide an organization exclusively representative of banking institutions under state control has led to a study by The Analyst of the relative resources of national and state banks and an inquiry into the distribution of banking institutions and banking power among the 48 states of the Union.

The tremendous increase in the banking resources of the United States becomes apparent when reference is made to the last annual report of the Controller of the Currency showing the estimated banking power of the country in June 1916 to have been $29,353,000,000, and in June 1917, $34,473,000,000.

The combined resources of the banks of six states, New York with $10,933,871,000; Pennsylvania $3,843,668,000; Massachusetts $2,831,243,000; Illinois, $2,566,547,000; Ohio, $1,876,466,000 and California, $1,770,128,000, aggregate $23,831,923,000 or approximately three-fifths of the total resources of all the banks in the country. The resources of banks in New York state are more than one-fourth of the total. In 16 of the 48 states the resources of the national institutions exceed those of state controlled banks. They are Alabama, Colorado, Florida, Idaho, Illinois, Kentucky, Minnesota, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia, Washington, and Wyoming.

The combined capital of the 20,423 banking institutions under state control amounts to $1,198,583,841, compared with $1,096,932,000, the combined capital of 7,688 national banks. The surplus of the state banks totals $1,217,070,794, compared with $803,145,000 for the national banks, and the undivided profits of the former class of institutions amount to $236,168,464, compared with $355,937,000 for the latter. The capital, surplus, and undivided profits of the state institutions total $2,651,823,100 while the total of the same items for the national banks is $2,256,012,000. An analysis of these figures shows that the average capital, surplus, and undivided profits of state institutions is $129,000 while the average for national banks is $293,000.

EXPENSES OF WAR

When it is realized that one 16-inch shell complete with explosive, packing, etc., costs nearly $1000 some idea can be formed of what even a slight encounter with the enemy costs in these days of modern warfare. The actual money involved in such an offensive has recently been going on in the western front is almost too much for the average person to imagine. Too few stop to think about it. They are ready enough to shout for the brave boys who have held back nothing from their country's call but they do not always stop to think as they should that the shouts should have a strong foundation under them, a foundation of Liberty Bonds and Liberty Bonds. Every dollar counts and every dollar that can be put into a bond does just so much toward winning the war. One dollar will buy an overseas cap; 80 cents will buy a pair of woolen gloves; 60 cents a summer undershirt and $2.00 a winter one. It takes $225 to buy an artillery (wheel) harness and $175,000 to provide one 16-inch gun to fire the $1000 shell.

COST OF SHIPS OF WAR

What is to be done with all the money that is being asked for on the Fighting Fourth Liberty Loan? Pay for battleships, submarines and a thousand other things to be used by our boys on the land, on the sea, in the air and under the sea. To complete a single battleship now under construction requires $25,000,000 and a battle cruiser takes $24,000,000. A scout cruiser takes $7,220,000 and a destroyer $1,590,000. A coast submarine costs $850,000 and a sea-going submarine $1,430,000.

COST OF AMMUNITION

The ammunition in each torpedo fired from a ship in the present war costs from $5000 to $10,000. One pounder cartridge contains ammunition valued at $7.25 while a six pounder cartridge has ammunition valued at $1.70. Ammunition in a 3-inch shell is valued at $3. That in a 4-inch shell is valued at $8. In a 5-inch shell at $13 and in a 6-inch shell at $18. It is a simple problem in mathematics to find how many torpedoes or shells can be filled with ammunition by a single Liberty Bond.

BUY A BOND.

Hosts of Hell are Right defying, Spurring not the sick or dying, Broken Freedom, Thy soul's Feeling, Innocents implore you, inselting, "Buy a Bond."

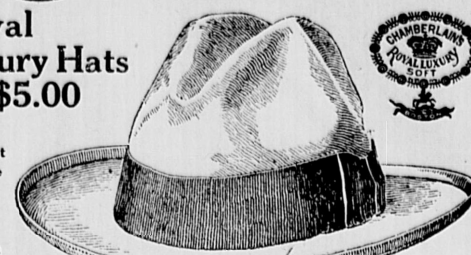

For our boys who, in the fight, Stand for U.S., for God and Right, Keep their home fires burning bright, "Buy a Bond."

FOR RENOMINATION

Frederick M. Esty comes up this year for Republican renomination as register of probate, and from all indications his conduct of that important office will be endorsed by his party at the primaries and by the people on election day. Mr. Esty is a citizen of Framingham who has made his way to the top of the registry office by ability and industry. He has been connected with the office for twenty years, and for twelve years was assistant register. By appointment of the governor he was made register to fill out the unexpired term of his predecessor, and two years ago the Republicans of Middlesex nominated and elected him for register of probate by a very large vote.

The primaries take place next Tuesday, September 24. The vote will necessarily be smaller than usual, for thousands of Middlesex voters are in the army and navy, but the citizens at home have a double responsibility and when they have the opportunity to continue in office an official with a satisfactory record they are likely to do so.

GIRL SCOUTS

The Newton Centre Girls' Scouts are awake. So are their parents.

On Friday, the thirteenth, the Scouts started for an over night hike, and in spite of Friday, the thirteenth and the rain, they were lucky, for the stars were soon shining and they had the very best time possible. The trip was in charge of Mr. Edward Ovington, and he taught the girls a hundred useful things, such as how to pin blankets for greatest comfort in sleeping out of doors, how to build a fire, hot enough to cook on, but without dangerous flame or intaking smoke, how to make wet wood burn, and many other things.

The parents are awake, too; awake to their responsibilities and privileges as scout parents, for they have attended a conference and listened to the interesting talks of Mrs. Roblin, Commissioner of Brookline, and Mrs. Storvick of the National Council. This conference was held on Monday evening the 16th, in the chapel of the Congregational Church.

WE ALL SPEAK IT AND SHE WONDERED

Young Gridley's Letter the Real "United States."

Expert in English Composition May Have Had Some Criticism to Make But She Could Not Misunderstand the Meaning.

The members of the English class had filed out of the recitation room, with the exception of Gridley, who, by special request, was now standing at the teacher's desk.

To the casual observer, Gridley was a boy of about fifteen, with a wiry frame, a well-shaped head thatched with straw colored hair, a large mouth and gray-blue eyes.

"I am surprised that you should offer this as an exercise in English composition," Miss Stanhope said with a note of sarcasm in her voice, pointing to several sheets of paper that lay on her desk.

"You told me to take any subject that I was interested in, if it was worth while, and then put plenty of time into it, and I did. It took me more than two hours," protested Gridley.

"I should hardly call the subject worth while," began Miss Stanhope.

"It was the best game there's been this season," said Gridley.

"We will let that pass," the teacher continued. "What I object to is the language that you have used. What am I to make of such expressions as these: 'The south paw artist,' 'a free ticket to the initial bag,' 'Duffy was nailed at the plate,' 'two of the visitors crossed the pan?' Really, Gridley, do you call that English?"

Gridley's mouth widened in a grin. "I don't know about English, Miss Stanhope, but I guess it's United States," he said.

Miss Stanhope smiled herself, although she would have preferred not to. She took her specialty, which was English, very seriously, and it pained her when her pupils did not.

"It might be Choctaw, as far as I am concerned," she said. "It conveys absolutely no meaning."

"Why, didn't you ever see a baseball game?" exclaimed Gridley.

"No, I believe not," she admitted, and she perceived at once that her confession of ignorance was far more interesting to Gridley than any display of her knowledge had ever been. The happy thought occurred to her to take advantage of the fact. "No," she repeated, "I know nothing about baseball, but I should like to learn. Suppose you try telling the teacher and see if you can make this all clear to me. You will have to begin at the beginning and be very patient with me."

"Do you mean it?" said Gridley, with the joy of the enthusiast in his eyes. Then for more than an hour he expounded baseball, while the English teacher faithfully groped her way to an understanding.

"You must think me very stupid," she said more than once, and Gridley, although he did not dispute her, redoubled his efforts to express his meaning in words fitted to his pupil's capacity. At the end of the hour Miss Stanhope was pretty well versed in the rudiments of the game, and, incidentally, Gridley had gained a little in English and a good deal in his liking for the teacher.

"I'll hand in a better composition next time," he assured her as he finally went his way.

The promised composition was duly received, although after the lapse of some four years, and it came from "somewhere in France."

"Perhaps you have forgotten me," Gridley wrote, "but I haven't forgotten you, or the hour that we spent one Friday afternoon, going over my baseball 'piece.' I little thought that I should not see you again, but we moved from the city quite unexpectedly the next week. Now I am farther away than ever from the old school. But here is the composition that I promised to pass in, not about baseball this time, but about the big war over here. I'm in a harder school than Bayport High and there's no chance to play hooky. But I'm glad to be here and it's up to me to make good."

Miss Stanhope accepted the statement, not for its elegance but as evidence of the serious purpose of Gridley—little Gridley of the straw-colored hair and the contagious grin.

"There will be something done when we fellows get into the game," wrote Gridley, "and, take it from me, we will hand the Kaiser his all right."

The thought was badly expressed but Miss Stanhope thrilled at the spirit behind the words.

"It won't be long now before it is all over and I am back in little old America again," the letter went on. "The tears came to Miss Stanhope's eyes. 'Ah, soldier boy,' she thought, 'it is well that you over there have faith, while so many of us back here have only hope. Perhaps your faith will help to make your prophecy come true!'"

"I guess," said Gridley, at the end, "that this won't take a very high mark as English, but," and the teacher, although her own eyes were a little dim, could almost see the twinkle in his gray-blue eyes as he wrote the words, "perhaps it will get by as 'United States.'"—Youth's Companion.

There Are Others. My husband is sure some paradox. "How's that?"

"He's so tight with his loose change."—Florida Times-Union.

Mrs. Billtops Really Doubted Scale's Accuracy.

Seemed a Singular Thing Until Explanation Dawned on the Pair Who Were Going Through the Regular Program.

"We keep," said Mr. Billtops, "a record of Mrs. Billtops's weight. There is a drug store in our neighborhood which we pass in our daily walks where they have a nice beam scale, and about once in ten days or two weeks we stop in there and weigh Mrs. Billtops; and then, when we get home, I set the weight down in the record."

"The greatest difference between any two weights taken so far this year is two pounds; while the difference between the first weight and the one just taken is only three-eighths of a pound. So you can see her weight is running very true."

"It might seem that all this was rather a humdrum commonplace performance to go through, but really there's a good deal of variety to it."

"For instance, in winter, when she is wearing a heavy cloak, we weigh Mrs. Billtops with that cloak on. Thus the first weight we get is the gross weight, and then from that we have to deduct the tare, this being the weight of the cloak as previously ascertained at home, to arrive at the net, which is what we set down in the record."

"So you see it is not all quite so simple as it seems; and this spring, when Mrs. Billtops put on for the first time her lighter-weight spring coat, we ran into a regular incident."

"After weighing her, as usual, with her coat on, we remembered that we had forgotten to weigh this coat before starting out, but this was a light coat that could be easily removed and handled, and so now Mrs. Billtops removed her coat and we weighed her with the coat off. But do you know, she weighed precisely the same with her coat off as she did with it on!"

"Mrs. Billtops and I looked at each other in mild amazement; but then at the same moment we both made the same discovery. Still standing on the scale Mrs. Billtops was holding the coat she had just removed!"

"I am not sure that Mrs. Billtops is quite as much interested in all this weighing business as I am, but we both laughed at that; and really I should say that taking everything together we get a lot of fun out of weighing Mrs. Billtops."—New York Times.

The Simple Lifer.

Every sensible man and woman today is a simple lifer. There are so many things which are difficult to get, so many controllers are hemming us in with prohibitions that we are making our lives simpler and more simple every day. Curiously enough, the large majority of us are feeling all the better for it. We walk where we once motored, and the exercise sets the stagnant blood in our veins running with fresh vigor. We eat less and digest more. So little have we felt the deprivation that most of us are declaring that for the future it is to be the "simple life forever." There are, of course, some who struggle in their absurd vanity to keep the old life alive. Their time is mainly spent in evading the orders of the food controller, or in discovering new sources of extravagance. Some day they will realize their mistake and join the happy army of "simple lifers." You cannot have your cake and eat it. Our cake today is victory in the great war for freedom, truth and justice. That can only be ours if we deny ourselves all the other cakes we once loved so much. The "simple lifer" is doing his duty and that is why he is happy. His is the vision without which, as Solomon told us, "the people perish."—London Express.

German Subterfuge.

The Almanach de Gotha, annually "made in Germany," was well known before the war as the social register of Europe, a kind of "Burke's Peerage" of the continent. Naturally it has been ostracized for some time from the best allied society, and now it is entirely superseded by the Almanach de Bruxelles, which, in a first edition, has recently met a warm welcome in France. The German publication, it appears, has been a powerful channel of espionage. Officials of every country in the world have innocently supplied it with information about prominent people, family trees, armies, navies, and what not. Some of this information was ostentatiously paraded on the pages of the Almanach, but one would like to know how much of it went privately into the files of the German intelligence department.

World's Aluminum Supply.

Though Switzerland led the world in the early electrolytic production of aluminum, France has been the chief producing nation since 1896, and supplied as much as 89.2 per cent of the world's annual total at the time of the outbreak of the war. The 10 plants for electrolytic aluminum had in 1914 an aggregate of 140,000 horsepower with a capacity of 19,000 tons a year. The three plants of the United States supplied 25.8 per cent of the world's product; the two plants of Switzerland, 12.4; the two English plants, 7.8; the one Canadian plant, 5.2, and the two plants of Norway, 4.3. French supremacy has been due to the superior quality of the bauxite mined.

Famous Ace From Waban Brought Down by Huns

First Lieut. David E. Putnam of Waban, who has attained great fame as an aviator, becoming the American Ace of Aces, was killed last Wednesday afternoon while on patrol along the American lines.

He was flying with Lieut. Wendell Robertson of Fort Smith, Ark., when they were attacked by seven German machines. Four of these made for Putnam's airplane and three attacked Robertson's. The attack was sudden and unexpected and the enemy was able to fire from above. Lieut. Putnam was shot twice through the heart. His machine glided to the earth at Limey, within the American lines, where he was found by his comrades. Lieut. Robertson returned safely.

Putnam's greatest feat was last June 5, over the battlefield of Rheims, when he shot down five German planes within half an hour. It was the culminating moment for an ambition that began in his school days.

He was 20 years old and a student in the class of '20 at Harvard. He had great fighting blood, being a direct descendant of Gen. Israel Putnam of Revolutionary war fame. He is a son of Mrs. F. H. Putnam, was born in Newton, graduating from the High School in 1916. He was a winning athlete in various lines, captain of the hockey team in his senior year, president of his class, and active in all school activities.

For two years he was at a Y. M. C. A. camp in Becket, N. H., being an expert swimmer and diver and handy with boats and canoes. A few months after entering Harvard he tried for a

HOME CARE OF THE SICK

The Grip Epidemic a Reminder of the Importance of Taking the Red Cross Lessons in Home Nursing and Hygiene

A visitation like the present epidemic of grip is a sharp and unpleasant reminder that the intelligent care of our bodies and health during the war is a matter of more than usual importance. Doctors are few and nurses are hard to secure. Women who are mothers of families should know how to prevent preventable diseases and ailments and how to care for simple illnesses without calling for a nurse. Not only will such knowledge be invaluable in a woman's own home but it will be of value to all by relieving overworked doctors and nurses of unnecessary calls.

Such knowledge will also enable women to know when the doctor should be called, and a call in time often prevents a long illness and may even save life. One of the Red Cross classes in Home Nursing and Hygiene is almost filled and will begin its lessons as soon as a few more women join it. The lessons are given at the Newton Hospital by competent instructors and the fee charged is a small one to meet the actual costs. Applicants for the class will be given full information by Miss Edith R. Fisher, the assistant secretary of the Newton Branch of the Red Cross at 306 Walnut street, Newtonville who may also be reached by telephone, Newton North 2717. There can not be too many applicants as the Red Cross considers the instruction given in these courses of supreme importance and will organize classes as fast as they are needed.

A Fantastical Terror.

"It's curious how soldier uniforms always show an influence on feminine fashions." "Yes," replied Miss Cayenne. "But I hope we won't keep on shortening skirts until we begin to imitate the Scottish Highlanders."

OF WHAT USE IS THE RAT? AMERICAN IS NOT SONGSTER

Place of the Predatory Rodent in Balance of Nature Perhaps in Remote Past.

One of the zoological details connected with the rat is its failure to sustain any discoverable relation with the balance of nature. The balance of nature seems remarkably even all over the world, for no kind of life can become wholly extinct without affecting prejudicially the general environment.

The rat seems the solitary exception to the general experience that interference with the fauna of an environment invites disaster through an upset of the balance of nature, says a writer in Current Opinion. Other forms of life, vegetable or animal, upset it by their absence. It was thought until recently that a peculiar species of flea could thrive upon the rat alone, but some doubt is thrown upon this idea by reports of plague investigators.

There is, however, another view of the connection of the rat with the balance of nature, according to the Paris Revue Scientifique. The rodent has achieved its task, performed its duty. The work was accomplished in past centuries, probably in Asia. Rats will attack very large organisms. Even the elephant is not respected. It is widely known that certain varieties of Asiatic elephants have a great dread of rats. Cases are recorded in which a huge elephant has succumbed to wounds made in its feet by rats. The rats gnaw the hoofs of horses when it can get at them. It would exterminate the pig if it could find a neutral in man.

In brief, all the evidence suggests that there has raged in the past a great warfare between the rat and certain gigantic forms of life. The brown rat seems to have had much to do with the extinction of certain great beasts in Asia. Perhaps the mastodon was routed by the rat. In any event, the rat may have played a glorious part in eliminating the bulky monsters that in time past kept man down numerically just as today the robin plays a glorious part in eliminating from the soil the pests that otherwise would keep the crops down.

The very voracity of the rat must have been of great zoological importance when it had to attack, perhaps, a herd of mastodons. The rats traveled, then, evidently, in swarms. They swam rivers in swarms. Nothing could stand them or withstand them. Having eaten up everything that could not run or fly or fight back, the rat turned to Europe and had to satisfy itself with new habits and different foods. Its connection with the balance of nature was destroyed and it is today a meaningless survival with nothing but a somewhat doubtful claim to a characteristic flea.

Name German Shells.

There are about 200 separate and distinct kinds of shells fired from German guns, and each and every one of them has been given at least one nickname by the English Tommies. Some of them have been given several.

The biggest kind of high explosive shells, for instance, are known indifferently as "Dirty Dicks," "Jack Johnsons," "Coal Boxes," "Flower-Pots," "Crumps," "Black Peters," or "Whistling Willies."

The smaller kind are "Black Marias" or "Woolly Bears," according to whether the smoke they emit when bursting is black or white with a yellowish tinge.

High-explosive shrapnel and trench-mortar shells are respectively "whizz-bangs" and "pip-squeaks," from their habit of giving only these warnings of their approach. "Archibalds" are anti-aircraft shells.

Dried Eggs.

The high cost of eggs in England has led to the birth of quite a new big business in dried eggs and eggs in solution. One large firm selling dried eggs has undertaken an extensive advertising campaign to push these eggs upon the attention of retailers, who in their turn are being enabled by other advertising matter to attract their customers to the goods.

The dried eggs which they advertise are entirely soluble and take up the water like a lump of sugar and thus give the perfect creamy liquid of a beaten shell egg ready for instant use on mixing. Dried eggs are no longer to be regarded as war food; they have come to stay. This firm predicts that in the near future the properly dried eggs will have become one of the very largest used and most important of our foods.

Rabbits a Real Pest.

As a fair illustration of the rabbit pest in certain portions of New Zealand, and especially in the drier sections of the South island, it is stated that on an estate lately taken over by the New Zealand government, comprising 12,446 acres of freehold and a pastoral run of 19,250 acres, there were killed or captured about 120,000 rabbits in order to clear up the property so as to make it suitable for the location of returned soldiers.

World's Need for Wheat.

Exports of wheat from the United States to the allies between July 1, 1914, and January 1, 1918, totaled more than 880,000,000 bushels. Wheat flour exports exceeded 24,000,000 barrels. The total in terms of wheat shows that the United States has sent the allies nearly five bushels of wheat for every person in this country. Until the next harvest the great need is for wheat from the United States.

Seems That Real Musical Instinct Has Yet to Be Awakened in the United States.

The last quarter of a century the general feeling has spread abroad that America was quite a musical nation, and it is true that in the large cities of the eastern seaboard and quite far into the middle West there is a good deal of listening to music in the form of opera and concerts, given, for the most part, by imported musicians; but when we reach the great heart of the country we find that the natural instincts of the people are almost entirely starved, or at any rate, very poorly nourished. For a musical nation is not one which merely listens to music made by others, any more than a people is athletic if, instead of exercising themselves, they watch others indulge in gymnastics.

A musical people is one which considers music such an indispensable food and tonic for their own spirits and imaginations that they sing and play in every activity of daily life just as freely and naturally as they laugh and speak. For many centuries this has been true of all the great European nations—the Italians, French, Scotch, Irish, Scandinavians, Russians and others—and the result is the great body of folk song and folk dance which is the priceless heritage of all these nations.

Just why the American has not yet become a singing animal (as Aristotle said everyone was a social animal) is a difficult matter to explain, although, doubtless, if sufficient time were taken, reasonable causes might be suggested; but, at any rate, it is a fact. Surely one of the most direct products of this war will be the bringing home to the whole body politic of the value of music, for by means of the stress of war which is bringing the whole country together, a love of music may be carried into the most remote parts of the country.

Good regimental bands have always furnished one of the most sympathetic bonds between the body politic and the government of any given country, and we earnestly hope that more and more, both during the war and after it, we shall have in America a number of such bands which will consider it their pleasure and duty to play at all public and patriotic meetings, especially on national holidays, thus impressing upon all citizens the stimulating effect of martial music.

In a number of the camps in the middle West and in Texas we were told by officers and song leaders that there were drafted men who had come in from remote towns and settlements who had never seen any musical instruments, such as a pianoforte and violin, and who had no idea that men could make pleasing sounds with their vocal organs in connection with the uttering of words.

Economical Husband.

The conversation in the lobby of a Washington hotel turned to a subject of war-time economy when a fitting anecdote was related by Congressman Porter H. Dale of Vermont.

Recently the Browns moved into a new house, and not liking the wallpaper in the dining room, Mrs. Brown decided to have it repapered at her own expense. The work was done while Brown was at the office.

"I want you to look at the dining room, Jimmy," said little wife when the old man returned at the dinner hour and was proudly led into that apartment. "How do you like it?"

"I like the paper all right," replied Brown, just a little emotionally, "but why in the world did you use paste in putting it on?"

"Paste!" was the wondering rejoinder of the good woman. "How else could I have put it on?"

"You should have put it on with tacks," declared the economical husband. "You don't suppose we are going to live in this house forever, do you?"—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Munition Brass to Cost Less.

Perfection of a new type of electric melting furnace that will reduce materially the cost of making brass for munitions, devised by H. W. Gillett, a government chemist, was announced by the bureau of mines. Patents have been assigned to Secretary of the Interior Lane as trustee.

Cornell university and brass manufacturers were among those who assisted during five years of development of the device. It is intended to supplant open crucibles in which zinc and copper are melted by fuel heat under present manufacturing methods.

Navy Superstition.

A visitor on a British battleship was dining with a group of officers when his fork accidentally struck a glass tumbler. As the glass resounded the officers shouted as one man, "Hun." On asking for an explanation the visitor was told that the ringing of a glass meant bad luck. One officer declared that on one ship he formerly commanded every time a glass was rung a man fell overboard. This is why officers now cry "Hun" when a table accident occurs, they hoping to transfer their bad luck to the enemy.

Population of the Earth.

In 1787 the population of the earth, according to Busching, was about 1,000,000,000; in 1800, according to Fabri and Stein, only 900,000,000; in 1833, according to Stein and Horschelmann, 872,000,000. In 1858 Dietrich estimated it at 1,266,000,000 and Kolb, in 1865, at 1,220,000,000. According to the latest calculations the earth is inhabited by 2,400,000,000 happy (?) human beings.—New York Tribune.

LIEUT. RAYMOND A PRISONER

Lt. Robert F. Raymond of Newton Centre, located as a prisoner at Landshut, Germany, was on August 9, reported as having been missing since July 16. He is the son of Judge Robert F. Raymond of the Superior Court, whose home is at 71 Montvale road. Lt. Raymond, who is a member of the Twenty-Seventh Aero Squadron, was born in Newton twenty-three years ago. He attended Newton High School, was graduated from Milton Academy, class of 1913, and from Wesleyan University in 1917. On receiving his commission at Plattsburg he went to Toronto to train with the Royal Flying Corps. He completed his training in Texas and went to France, where he began flying in June. On June 24 he was officially credited with having downed his first German. He has a brother, Allen, who is in the Tank Corps.

LODGES

Dalhousie Lodge of Masons received an official visit Wednesday evening from District Deputy Grand Master George H. Dale and suite. Newton Lodge of Elks were greatly disappointed Wednesday evening, when word was received that the student soldiers at the High School had been placed in quarantine on account of the prevailing epidemic of influenza. Elaborate preparations had been made for an entertainment and refreshments, all of which had to be cancelled. Sandwiches and tobacco was sent to the boys at Newtonville as part compensation for the pleasure they had missed.

DEATH REPORT QUESTIONED

Rev. Dr. and Mrs. W. E. Strong of Brookside avenue, Newtonville, received from the government this week the sad report of the death of their son, Lieut. Ellsworth Olmsted Strong, said to have been killed in action in France, August 25. The report is doubted on the ground that Lieut. William Walsh who had been with Lieut. Strong, talked with him August 25, and Lieut. Strong wrote a brief note to his parents saying he was well. Lieut. Strong graduated from Newton High School in 1912 and from Dartmouth College in 1916, and a great many friends earnestly hope that these sad tidings will turn out untrue. Lieut. Strong served with Battery A, of the 305th Field Artillery.

ENTERTAINMENT FOR SOLDIERS

On Friday, September 13th, the soldiers studying at the High School were each presented with a comfort kit by the Newton Branch of the Red Cross. Mr. George R. Pulsifer, in presenting the kits, told of the splendid work of the Red Cross, emphasizing the work for the families of the men who are called into service.

Mr. W. F. Garcelon then spoke of the work of the Newton Public Safety Committee—how it undertakes work which no other organization is attempting.

Mr. R. H. Dix, the Red Triangle Secretary, presided, and introduced a number of young people from Boston who entertained the soldiers with songs and recitations.

Mrs. W. O. Hunt, of the Hostess House extended a very cordial invitation to the men to visit the rooms set aside by the Newton Club for the use of themselves and their friends.

At the close Mr. Dix proposed three cheers for the Red Cross, the entertainers, and the Hostess House. These were given with a will by the men who also added three cheers for Mr. Dix, the Red Triangle Secretary.

RAISED $2000 FOR REFUGEES

Great interest is felt by the Italian residents of Newton Centre and other villages in the relief work for the suffering peoples in the district in Italy devastated by the Austrians and Germans. Last night a lecture and dance was held at Bray Hall by the Friuli Refugees Relief Association. The grip epidemic kept many people away, nevertheless a profit of about $500 was cleared. Lieut. Vittorio Orlandino gave a very interesting lecture, recounting his personal experiences and showing the reasons for the war. Dancing followed. This association has now raised over $2000 for these refugees. It is showing a fine patriotic spirit in all the war efforts of the community.

LIGHT VOTE AT PRIMARY

Powers, Rice and Early Nominated for Republican Representatives

The primary vote in this city last Tuesday was, as anticipated, quite small, the Republicans polling 2101 votes and the Democrats, 260 votes.

With uncontested nominations for United States Senator and for Governor, the Republican interest centered in the fight for the Congressional nomination between Mayor Childs of this city and Hon. Robert Luce of Waltham in the selection of three representatives from a field of six candidates. Mayor Childs for Congress received a most flattering vote in Newton with a total of 1420 to 615 for Luce. Francis, the third candidate, was a bad third with 29. Mr. Luce wins the nomination, however, carrying the district by a vote of 3433 to 3210 for Childs and 684 for Francis.

Representative Leland Powers, Mr. Abbott B. Rice and Alderman Bernard Early won the representative nominations with 1361, 1121 and 881 votes respectively. Major Barnes with 748 is fourth, Beatty, is fifth with 678, and Ross last with 560.

Representative J. Weston Allen of this city as a candidate for Attorney General received 1335 votes here to 571 for Henry C. Atwill the present incumbent. Mr. Allen made a strong but unsuccessful fight for the nomination throughout the state.

Speaker Cox also carried the city by a vote of 3241 to 537 for Guy A. Ham and was an easy winner in the state.

United States Senator John W. Weeks received 1791 votes and Calvin Coolidge for governor had the largest vote of any candidate, 1806.

The other candidates had the following votes:

Langtry, secretary	1745
Burrill, treasurer	1637
Thayer, treasurer	152
Cook, auditor	1471
Grinnell, auditor	279
Harris, councillor	1631
Weston, senator	1744
Cutting, county commis.	1650
Hayden, county treasurer	1047
Brace, county treasurer	621
Esty, register probate	1277
Andrew, register probate	393

The vote for Congressman and Representative is given in full in tabular form.

On the Democratic side, Long for governor had 94 votes to 81 for Gaston and 68 for Barry.

Mayor Childs sent the following letter to Mr. Luce on Tuesday night:

Sept. 24, 1918
Hon. Robert Luce, Waltham, Mass.

My dear Mr. Luce:—
I have enjoyed very much the quiet, dignified campaign just closed, and am satisfied with the result. A more active one would, it seems to me, have been wholly out of keeping with the seriousness of the times.

Now that the contest is over may I assure you that I have no regrets, and no ill feeling in my heart towards either you or friend Francis or fate.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN

Effort to Keep Newton Boys in Training Camp at Newtonville

The aldermen held a brief meeting Monday evening adjournment being reached shortly after nine o'clock. The business was mostly of a routine nature and aside from a debate on a resolution from Alderman Blake in regard to keeping Newton boys in the training camp now at Newtonville, but little was said.

President Early was in the chair and the only members absent were Aldermen Allen and Holt.

Dr. G. M. Winslow spoke in favor of granting the Lasell Seminary a permit for a public garage at the former Woodland Park hotel and there was no opposition. Other hearings were held on the laying out of Fredana road, establishing a building line on the same street, and for sewer construction in the same street and for the laying out and for establishing a building line in Dartmouth street extension.

Mayor Childs sent in a recommendation for $690 for a hydrant in rear of the Technical High school due to the erection of temporary barracks at that place, for $1500 additional for Mains and Hydrants and for $500 for alterations in the old church building at West Newton for use of the Exemption Board. Alderman Early took the floor on the last item and explained the great need of the Board for more room and said that the government would repay the city for this expenditure in the way of rent. All of the Mayor's recommendations were subsequently approved. The Mayor also sent in a request for more Automobile Maintenance funds from the Street and Forestry Depts., for $375 for sprinkler pipes in the lunch room of the Classical High School. $500 for drainage in Nye Park and at Peirce school and for $48 for City Garage salary account. Alderman Cook then drew the following names of persons to serve as jurors at the Cambridge Superior Court the coming month.—Augustus O. Clark, Crafts street, Benjamin W. Spence, Norwood avenue, John A. Paton, Fair Oaks avenue, Arthur I. Brown, Highland avenue, and Vernon G. Spaulding, Carleton street.

Petitions of Margaret E. McNamara, Chapel street, Edward E. Buote, Washington street, Andre Hunnill, Concord street, Eliza P. Craig, for Lodging House permits, of Andrew J. Davis for garage permits on Peabody street and Bonad road, and of H. L. Tange for garage permit on Auburndale avenue were granted. Other petitions were received from the telephone company for attachments on Gardner street, for a relocation on Concord street, from Ann Y. Keough, for lodging house on Peabody street, from William Arduino for pool table on Langley road, and for concrete sidewalk on Cherry street.

On recommendation of committees, a sidewalk assessment was levied on Farlow road, street sprinkling ordered on Langley road, hearings assigned on taking land for a sewer in Otis park and on laying a concrete sidewalk on Cherry street, changing name of South street to College road, establishing a building line on Centre street, granting leave to withdraw on claims of Charles Scipione and Mrs. Delia B. McHugh, granting claim of Mary Crowley for $1.85 and Workmen's compensation to Peter Lyons for $8.55, granting gasoline permits to B. S. Hatch Co. and J. W. Maguire, granting relocations to the Edison Co. on Auburn street and Elm street, poles on Centre street to the M. & B. St. Rwy. Co., attachments on Washington street on the Western Union Tel. Co. and relocations on Centre street and Kapasia street and permit to remove poles on Auburn street to the Telephone Co. Leave to withdraw was also granted on the taxicab petitions of Carlson & Swanson, the Garden City Garage and (Continued from Page 2.)

NEWTON MUST RAISE $5,778,000

The Big Liberty Loan Stunt Set For This City. Everyone Must Help.

Newton's quota for the Fourth Liberty Loan is set at $5,778,000.

To give some idea of what this sum would do for the country, it may be said that it would pay for one destroyer, one cargo ship, one of the eagle class of submarine chasers, a base hospital with one thousand beds, 50 combat airplanes, 400 motor trucks, a large tank and supply the rifles for 100 men. When these things are enumerated, it would seem that the city's portion of the loan would do a great deal; but when it is stated that it would pay for less than three hours of the costs of the war, it does not seem so much. The ammunition used in a small barrage alone costs $1,000,000.

None of us has any appreciation of what a million dollars is, so it may be interesting to see what our own small individual subscriptions will do. When one buys a $50 Liberty Bond, he pays for the war cost of the government one tenth of a second, or buys 1000 rifle cartridges or 4 gas masks. He feeds one soldier for four months or pays for one 6 inch shell and the powder to fire it at a U boat. When one puts in $100 he pays for 3 rifles and their bayonets; or clothes a soldier for over-seas service, or feeds a whole company of infantry for a day. With $200 the government can buy a horse or a mule or the entrenching tools for a company. A subscription of $500 puts steel helmets on a company of infantry; and $1000 pays for an X-ray outfit for a base hospital or a rolling kitchen for a company.

A subscription for $2000 buys 250 blankets and if one will add $50 more, he will cover the full cost of maintaining a soldier for a year, including clothing, equipment, fighting outfit, food, pay, housing and transportation to France.

Most of us would like to present our government with a Liberty motor truck, and it would cost us only $5000 to do it. For $10,000 we can supply 6 motor ambulances or fully equip three 50 bed hospital wards. If we are more interested in the air service and will buy $20,000 worth of Liberty Bonds, we can give the government an observation balloon.

These are only a few instances of how our Liberty Loan money goes; but we all know it goes in huge quantities and that the only way the war can be carried on is by the utmost response of all the people. Here in Newton the campaign will begin tomorrow morning. While three weeks have been given for it by the government, it is very much to be desired that it be closed quickly. Newton is thoroughly organized and if the people are ready with their subscriptions, the greater part of the city's quota should be obtained within a week.

Mr. L. C. Fisher, proprietor of the Newton Opera House, and Mr. Charles F. Atkinson, associated with him in its management, have contributed materially this last week and will continue to do so next week, in arousing the patriotic interest of our citizens. As a contribution to the campaign Mr. Fisher (who, by the way, has two sons in the service) arranged for Mr. Atkinson to deliver his five minute talk based on Edward Everett Hale's story, "A man without a Country." Mr. Atkinson gives a fascinating talk which meets a quick and enthusiastic response from his audience. He gave his talk before the Technical, Vocational and Classical High Schools to the great interest of the children. Next week every day he will repeat it at the Newton Opera House, where it will be a feature of the Liberty Loan Campaign.

This evening and tomorrow evening also at the Newton Opera House will be shown a special Liberty Loan film, at the request of the Newton Liberty Loan Committee. This film has been prepared by the New England Liberty Loan Committee and as there are only thirty-seven in all New England, Newton is fortunate in being able to obtain the use of one at the outset of the Campaign.

C. E. Holmes and on Telephone poles on Sewall street. Mrs. Florence H. Whitton was granted Soldiers' Relief of $12 per month.

The Street Commissioner was authorized to exchange four automobiles, $1000 was authorized for shade tree work on private estates, and $300 voted for Engineering supplies.

Alderman Nichols explained the proposed amendment to the Building Code which was reported by the committee on rules and which he said made the Code agree with the evident purpose of the persons who originally framed it. The ordinance was then accepted.

There was a long discussion over the resolution introduced by Alderman Blake expressing the hope that the War Department committee would designate the Vocational High School as one of the institutions approved for the training of student-soldiers, in order that 108 Newton boys over 18 now in the High School might continue their education here until their services were required in the army. Alderman Cole was insistent that no action should be taken until the matter had been approved by the School Board. Alderman Kendrick stated an experience which led to the belief that the government did not favor home town training for its soldiers. Alderman Hapgood questioned the advisability of asking the government to say that the Newton Vocational School was the equal of a college and finally Alderman Blake himself suggested the matter be tabled for further investigation.

Alderman Cole called the attention of the board to the need of the Exemption board for help and urged the members to give an evening or two a week for this purpose.

TRAGIC RESULT OF JOY RIDE

As the result of a joy ride ending in Weston, Tuesday, Miss Edna B. Nordheim of Swan avenue, West Newton, was seriously injured. At the Waltham hospital yesterday it was reported that while she was somewhat more comfortable, she was not yet out of danger. She had a crushed hip and probable internal injuries.

Ralph C. Wiggin, seventeen years old, of Centre street, Newton, and James R. Johnson, twenty, of Mill street, Newtonville, were arrested by the Weston police on the charge of unlawfully appropriating an automobile. Another girl in the party escaped serious injury.

Wiggin's father is a caretaker on the estate of Henry I. Harriman, president of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, who lives at 825 Centre street, Newton, and the automobile is owned by Mr. Harriman. According to the police the boys took the machine without permission.

Shortly after midnight, while making the turn from Loring street into Summer street, in Weston, the car toppled over an embankment, pinning Miss Nordheim beneath it. The other members of the party ran for help, but by the time they found enough people to lift the overturned machine Miss Nordheim had been beneath it for more than half an hour.

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. Susan Fogwill and family take this opportunity to acknowledge the many floral tributes and the love and sympathy extended to them in their great bereavement.

A YOUNG OFFICER

Other towns may boast of their young men, who have responded to the colors, but Newton may well claim to have the youngest commissioned officer in the Army.

John D. Farnam, of 1100 Boylston street, Newton Highlands, was commissioned a second lieutenant at the Small Arms Firing School, Camp Perry, O., last Monday. He is only 18 years old. With others from Boston University, John attended Plattsburg, where after an intensive course of five weeks, he was sent to the Small Arms Firing School at Camp Perry. He holds a record of 92 points at 500 yards slow fire, and also two medals for 200 yard shoot.

He is expected home on a furlough about October 5.

The funeral of Walter L. Merrill, a paymaster in the United States Merchant Marine, who was attached to the training ship Dorothy Bradford, and who died from influenza at New York, was held Saturday morning in the Church of Our Lady. The services were conducted by the pastor, Rev. Lawrence W. Slattery, who was assisted by his curates, Rev. Father Malone and Sommer. At the close a bugler sounded taps in the church.

Mr. Merrill, who was a native of Newton, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Merrill of Richardson street. A detail of sixteen apprentices from the Merchant Marine escorted the body from the house to the church and after the service marched beside the hearse as far as Centre street, as the body was being taken for burial in Brookside Cemetery, Dedham.

BURIALS THE SAME DAY

Relatives and friends returned Sunday from the burial in Newton cemetery of Clarence K. Fogwill, who died last week Thursday night of influenza, to assist at the funeral of his brother's wife, Eva C. Fogwill, who died the same night after a long illness. A second brother of the Fogwill family, Albert E. of Auburndale, died two weeks ago.

Funeral services for Clarence Fogwill, who lived at 1497 Washington street, West Newton, were held at the Lincoln Park Baptist Church, West Newton, the pastor, Rev. Thomas S. Roy, officiating. The pallbearers were six members of Newton Lodge, No. 110, Knights of Pythias, of which Mr. Fogwill was secretary. Clarence Fogwill came here on Sept. 7 from New Hampshire to attend the funeral of Albert E. Fogwill and was stricken soon after. He once was division superintendent of the Middlesex & Boston Street Railway.

His sister-in-law, Eva C., wife of W. U. Fogwill of Greenough street, West Newton, was buried after services at the Church of the Messiah, Auburndale, to which the funeral cortege drove directly from the cemetery. The pastor, Rev. Percival Wood, conducted the second service.

The Apollo quartet sang at both services.

Mrs. Fogwill was past noble lady of Boynton Lodge of Odd Ladies, she was a member of the Woman's Club of Auburndale and of Summer P. Lawrence Rebekah Lodge, also of the guild of the Church of the Messiah. She was very active in charity work, and will be missed by a great many people she has befriended. Clarence Fogwill, who possessed a very cheerful and likable nature will also be greatly missed.

LIEUT. JACKSON DEAD

Before official notification had arrived from the War Department, George W. Jackson, a Boston lawyer, who resides at 34 Ballard street, Newton Centre, received a letter from the chaplain of the 110th Infantry that his son, Lieutenant Leonard Jackson, was killed in action August 24. Leonard Jackson enlisted January 5, and became twenty-one years of age nine days later. He was a graduate of Newton High School, '15, where he was prominent as an athlete in hockey and tennis, and entered Harvard with the class of '19, joining the R. O. T. C. while at Cambridge, and remaining in college two and one-half years.

After enlisting as a private, Jackson went to Camp Upton, Long Island, and on March 26 was recommended for a commission and joined K Company of the 395th Infantry, where he became a corporal. He went overseas in April and on June 1 became a sergeant. The Newton young man was sworn in as a second lieutenant on July 13 and assigned to the Twenty-eighth division, joining the 110th Infantry August 1. Less than a month later he had made the supreme sacrifice.

The accompanying letter, received from the chaplain of the 110th Infantry, contains details of Lieutenant Jackson's heroic death and also information regarding burials which will be read with interest by those who have boys "over there." The letter follows:

"I deeply regret to report the death of your son, Second Lieutenant L. Jackson, who was assigned for duty with Company M 110th Infantry. His death occurred on Aug. 24 in an action which took place near the Vesle River. Lieutenant Jackson's death was under the most honorable and heroic circumstances. The Third Battalion of this regiment was ordered to capture the railroad line running along the river. Your son was in command of this platoon of Company M, one of the elements of the Third Battalion, and charged ahead with great heroism in the face of fire from machine guns hidden away in tall grass near the railroad. A bullet wounded him in the head and he fell to the ground. His men rushed to his aid and bandaged his head. They thought that he would retire and advised him to do so, but he arose and said: 'I can go ahead.'

Though weakened, he charged on, inspiring his men by his conduct, when he received other wounds from machine gun nests located in the same general section. These bullets struck him in the abdomen and he fell just as he approached the embankment of the railroad which the battalion was ordered to capture. He was borne in a litter back to the dressing station and surgical aid was given him, but the time the wounds were in vital parts and were too serious. He died shortly after.

His body was taken to Courville and buried in a little cemetery of American soldiers dead. His remains were tenderly and reverently laid away with military honor and in conformity to the practice of Christian Church. The grave is carefully marked and its location has been filed among the records of the Graves Registration Service of the War Department by the Chaplain Department of this regiment. The markings are a cross on which is painted the name, rank and organization which stands at the head of the grave. At the foot a bottle is buried near the surface of the earth which contains the same record to be found on the cross.

It ought to be a comfort in your grief to know that your son died in truest conformity to the highest tradition of honor and heroism. The memory of him no doubt will be greatly cherished by those who fought with him. It is my prayer that God's grace will comfort you in your sad bereavement.

Very sincerely,

Charles Scholl,

Captain and Chaplain, 110th Infantry."

More Cottage Cheese

We can save the dairy herds for our use and for our allies.

Everyone can be patriotic in increasing the use of dairy products, milk, butter, and cheese.

On the farms large quantities of sweet skim milk has been wasted, and hundreds of gallons have been fed to calves and pigs which could have been used to better advantage in our daily diet.

The Government has taken in hand the manufacture of cottage cheese and the teaching of its uses. As a result it can be bought at various places in the City.

Try cheese sprinkled with cinnamon for dessert.

CAMOUFLAGE SAUSAGE: In one bowl mix: one cup Cottage Cheese, one-quarter cup peanut butter, two tablespoons melted butter, one tablespoon minced raw onion. In another bowl mix: one cup dry bread crumbs, one-quarter cup peanut meats cut not very fine, one teaspoonful salt, one-half teaspoonful thyme, one-quarter teaspoonful black pepper. Work contents of two bowls together, shape into small cakes, roll in yellow cornmeal, and cook quickly in little fat in hot frying-pan.

COTTAGE CHEESE ROLLS: Take portion of firm peanut butter about size and shape of little finger, cover it with Cottage Cheese about a quarter of an inch thick, place in nest of lettuce leaves and serve with Russian or Mayonnaise dressing. A prune stuffed with peanut butter may be substituted for the insert giving an egg-shaped exterior, in which case, three should be used in the nest and the Mayonnaise placed in a yellow mass in the centre.

SCHOOLS RE-OPEN WEDNESDAY

The Newton Schools, both day and evening schools, will re-open next Wednesday unless later notice is given to the contrary. On account of the closing of the schools the Earl Barnes lecture on October first must be postponed. The course will begin October 8, if schools reopen by that time.

HOTEL WESTMINSTER

Copley Square, Boston

Wednesday evening the new Winter Garden at the Hotel Westminster was formally opened with a Dinner-Dance, held from six-thirty to nine o'clock.

The management has spared no effort toward making this Garden ideal in every particular. The entrance on St. James Avenue leads into a beautiful reception room, from which you enter the dining room.

To the strains of the ever enjoyable music, for which the Hotel Westminster has received unstinted praise, merry-makers have found added pleasure in the new Dancing Pavilion. The newly installed system of ventilation adds greatly to the comfort of dancers.

During this season the Winter Garden will be opened at noon, where they are now serving daily moderate priced luncheons, which will be particularly attractive to morning shoppers. Matinee Tea Dansant every Wednesday and Saturday, from 4 to 6.

A cordial welcome awaits old friends and the many new ones that this enchanting Garden will attract.

COPELEY THEATRE—"Officer 666," the play by Augustin McHugh which has been received with universal favor wherever acted both in this country and in England, will be given next week by the Henry Jewett Players at the Copley Theatre. It is aptly described as a melodramatic farce, for its incidents and dialogue are an ingeniously woven combination of the humorous with the sensational. This will be the first production of "Officer 666" at the Copley, and staged under the personal direction of Henry Jewett all its humor and all its sensation will be cleverly brought out in its acting. The cast will include Mr. Lewin, Mr. Clive, Mr. Wingfield, Mr. Permain, Mr. Craske, Mr. Podmore, Mr. Weston, Miss Viola Roach, Miss Mercedes Desmore, and Miss Estelle Thebaud.

CARING FOR GRIP PATIENTS

Woodland Park Hotel to Serve as Emergency Hospital—Advice to Public

Sept. 26, 1918
To the Editor of The Newton Graphic, Sir:—The Board of Health urges everyone to remain calm in the present outbreak of influenza. The situation, while serious, is not alarming and measures are being taken, not only to check the spread of the disease but to care for the sick.

Through the courtesy of Dr. Gay M. Winslow of Auburndale, the old Woodland Park Hotel has been turned over to the Red Cross and the Newton Hospital as an emergency hospital, which will be ready for the reception of patients by the time this appears.

There seems to be no sure means of preventing the occurrence of the disease but the best way of protecting oneself is to stay away from crowded places, such as theatres, trolley cars, etc.

Persons who have colds can help to check the spread of infection by covering the face when sneezing or coughing and also by avoiding going abroad in public as much as possible, as by so doing they lessen the danger of infecting others.

Persons who are ill should go to bed at once, call a physician and be guided absolutely by his advice. The danger of a serious result is greatly reduced by taking proper care of oneself in the early stages.

The disease manifests itself by a sudden onset followed by prostration, fever, etc. In ordinary cases it runs a comparatively short course and the patient should use special care not to try to get up too soon, as the great danger comes from a relapse caused by trying to resume work too quickly.

In general it is advisable to keep in as good physical condition as possible, by keeping in the open air, by avoiding getting chilled, by eating nourishing food and by sleeping warmly covered in a well ventilated room.

The Fuel Administration has authorized the use of coal for heating houses in cases where it is necessary for proper care of the sick, so that it is possible to keep living rooms warm, which should be done.

Above all do not be frightened but face the situation coolly, as the outbreak will probably pass away as quickly as it arose.

Board of Health of Newton,
By Francis Geo. Curtis, M.D., Chm.

LIEUT. STRONG DEAD

How Lieutenant Ellsworth Olmsted Strong, son of Rev. and Mrs. William E. Strong of Brookside avenue, Newtonville, met his death in France, is related in a letter to his parents from Captain Anderson Dana, Battery A, 305th F. A. The young man, who was graduated from Newton High School in 1912 and from Dartmouth four years later, had written to his parents a few hours before he was killed and hope was held that the Government report was erroneous. But today's missive from overseas brings the following sad, yet wonderfully inspiring tale:

"He was the most popular and ready-obeyed officer in the battery. The men worshipped him and, I say this in all reverence, would have followed or gone through hell for him. On August 24 he was detailed to go forward to the infantry line as a representative of the artillery. The former representative had just been killed and it was acknowledged to be a dangerous mission. He accepted the detail calmly and without hesitation. The party waited at battalion headquarters until dusk, as it was impossible to travel the last part of the journey by daylight, and then set out to their destination, which was the command post of the front-line infantry company. No sooner had he reached that point than the Germans opened a terrific artillery fire upon it. It was during this bombardment that Ellsworth was hit and instantly killed. He is buried where he fell and the battery have erected a cross upon the spot.

Captain Anderson Dana,
Battery A, 305th F. A."

SERVICE REDUCED

Beginning next Sunday, passenger service on the Middlesex & Boston Street Railway main lines will be curtailed to some extent and on several branch lines will be discontinued altogether. The financial condition of the road and the lack of men available make such action necessary.

No cars will be operated on the Lexington-Woburn, Wellesley-Needham and Hopkinton and Westboro lines and on the Saxtonville and Wayland ends of the crosstown Natick route.

By the new change in hours the cars will not leave the barns so early in the morning and run later into the night. On the main line between Watertown and Waltham the first car will start at 6:02 A. M., 15 minutes later than now, and will hold to a 10-minute schedule until 9 in the morning, then every 15 minutes until 3 in the afternoon, when the 10 minute time will again be maintained. During the rush hours cars will operate every eight minutes.

The Hens line will maintain a half-hour schedule during the day and three-quarter hour time after 7:30 P. M. and then three-quarter time. On the Watertown-Needham line the runs will be half-hourly up to 8 P. M. and then three-quarter time. The cross-town to Natick line will send out cars every half-hour; Framingham to Hopkinton hourly until 3 P. M. and then half-hour time until 6 P. M., when hourly trips will again be in force; Newton-South Framingham cars will go out every half-hour, and a similar schedule will be in force on the Commonweath-ay., Lake-st and Highlands line.

DRAFTED MEN CALLED

The draft board has called the following men to go Monday at 8 A. M., their destination being Fort Slocum: John Edward Halloran, 230 Walnut Lewis Bonn, 974 Dedham Nicola J. HOWARD MITCHELL

The following letter will be of interest to friends of the late Howard Mitchell:

Dear Mother and Father of Howard Mitchell:

During the past summer we have lived with your son at United States Naval Camps. He came to fill such a place in our lives that the shock of his loss bears heavily upon us. His "Captain" says "Oh, he was such a big, clean, classy boy! Till the last minute I worked and prayed to save him". The doctor says "We have lost a Prince". We would rather not try to say anything. But if any word of ours may help you, we don't want to leave it unsaid.

As Mitchell was our right guide, we kept our line straight by watching his big, handsome figure swinging along, over at the right of the company. Before long we learned that he was also a "right guide" in other ways. We never heard him speak an oath or an unclean word; we never saw him shirk. He always placed his own rights and pleasures second to those of others. We never heard him say an unkind word about any Officer or man; his frankness and sincerity made that unthinkable. Quiet, thoughtful, conscientious, humble, brave, he came to stand for us a living example of a young Christian patriot.

Before many months our company will probably be broken up. Some of us will be in far corners of the earth; some will be in ships on various seas; others may not be on earth or sea. But each one of us, in port or at sea, hereafter will be better able to fight the good fight because we will "carry on" with the help of the living spirit of Mitchell, our right guide.

Sincerely,
Officers and men of First Company, Second Battalion, Fourteenth Division, U. S. N. T. C., Bumkin Island, Massachusetts.

Dream True.

Are Your PICTURES Suffering?

How many years since an expert has examined them?

It is the rule for owners of pictures to neglect them until their condition is so bad that the expense of their restoration is many times as great as if they had received proper care.

We give especial attention to restoration, framing and regilding and the quality of our work is unsurpassed.

Our Carrig-Rohane Shop, headed by Mr. Hermann Dudley Murphy, unquestionably America's most original and artistic designer of frames, has been the leading influence in the development of taste in framing for the last dozen years.

CHARLES H. STACY.

Rich in Misfortunes.

At the end of life a man finds himself rich, not so much by his fortune as by his misfortunes. The Persians had a vase of glass, which when empty was colorless, but when filled with wine flashed forth many rare pictures. So a bosom empty of a heart of pain makes a lustrous life, but a bosom in which a heart bleeds reveals hidden virtues.—Tilton.

RED CROSS' QUICK WORK

Arranges for Opening of Woodland Park Hotel as Influenza Hospital

The Newton Branch of the Red Cross did a big job of work Wednesday evening and Thursday when they got ready the Woodland Park Hotel building for use as an emergency hospital for influenza patients. The idea was first suggested Wednesday afternoon. Dr. Guy M. Winslow, principal of Lasell Seminary, kindly offered the use of the building for this purpose. Arrangements were at once made to utilize at first the first floor for this purpose. A sufficient number of beds were in the building. It then became necessary to collect mattresses, bedding, linen, and other material from friends about the city, and everyone contributed generously and willingly.

The work was hustled along so fast that the hospital was ready for the first patients last evening. The Red Cross worked with the Newton Hospital on the proposition. The hospital takes charge of this as a branch of its work, with the same charges and staff as at the regular hospital. Mrs. C. J. A. Wilson of Newtonville formerly assistant matron of the hospital, is to be the head nurse. Mr. Southall, steward at the Brae Burn Country Club, is to have charge of the dining room and kitchen, and he had charge of getting the building in order. Dr. Irving Fisher of the hospital staff was the chief adviser in conduct of the work, and Mrs. Fisher took charge of assembling the material.

It is thought that if necessary 200 patients can be cared for in the building. At present the accommodations would take care of about 50.

DEATH OF WILLARD G. HARDING

The death took place Wednesday of Willard G. Harding, only son of Will E. and Ada P. Harding of Centre street.

Born in Auburndale in 1879 he passed through the Bigelow and High School and was graduated from Harvard in 1901.

As a young man he was active in Y. M. C. A. and The W. H. Davis Club, taking prominent part in dramatics in which he was eminently successful. He was proficient in music and as accompanist to the boys Glee Club was well known.

Soon after his graduation he entered the banking business and for the past twelve years has been associated with Hayden, Stone & Company of Boston.

He was ill but a few days, being taken with influenza which quickly developed into pneumonia.

Quiet and unassuming, he had many friends and his untimely death will be sincerely mourned.

He leaves besides his parents, a widow, who was Miss Harriet E. Jennings of Weston, and a sister, Mrs. Carlton L. Ellison of Sargent street.

Private funeral services will be held at 109 Sargent street on Saturday.

HURD GOLDEN WEDDING

Neighbors and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Hurd of Allerton road, Newton Highlands, gave them a surprise last Friday evening in recognition that it was the 50th anniversary of their marriage. They found both of them in good health, except that Mr. Hurd has been kept at home by rheumatism for a few weeks, from which attack he is now much better.

The company brought beautiful flowers and some attractive gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Hurd were married in Benton, Maine, and lived in Melrose for a good many years, coming to Newton Highlands nine years ago. Mr. Hurd was for many years in the wholesale lumber business, owning mills and timber tracts in Northern Maine and the South, and also being interested in the petroleum business in Oklahoma and Indiana. He had an office for 20 years at 53 State street, Boston, but has practically retired from business now.

He is a member of the Blue Lodge of Masons and the Hugh de Payens Commandery of Knights Templars at Melrose, and of Aleppo Temple of Boston, A. O. N. M. S. There are two children, Bert A. Hurd and Miss Florence Mabel Hurd, both living at home.

He was drafted and sent to Camp Devens, Oct. 5, 1917, was a first-class private in 15 days, a corporal on Nov. 18, and on Jan. 5, 1918, was sent to the officers' training camp. He was made sergeant April 19, and on June 6, was commissioned a second lieutenant. He is to be gas instructor at Camp Gordon, Ga. He is a graduate of St. Joseph's School and La Salle High of Waltham. He was practicing law at Boston when drafted.

MISS STEWART A HOSTESS

Miss Evelyn Stewart, teacher of French in the Clafin School, has accepted an appointment from the Y. M. C. A. as hostess in the Overseas Canteen Service. She expects to sail for France in six or eight weeks. In Miss Stewart, Newton is losing one of its finest and most inspirational teachers. Only rarely is it given to any one to win such absolute devotion as Miss Stewart's pupils, past and present, continue to show. She is a rare spirit, and Newton is proud to send young women of just her type as its representatives "over there."

VOLUNTEER RESERVES

By KATHERINE THAYER HODGES

Written for the Woman's Liberty Loan Committee of New England

That Dorothy's spirits were not up to concert pitch was plainly evident as she picked her way in the late afternoon through the crowded city streets. "It is not a question of 'To be or not to be' a Liberty Bond-holder, as Mr. Young said," she declared with a toss of her pretty head. "There is no question about it. I cannot buy even a fifty-dollar Liberty Bond, and that ends it."

The innocent but disturbing element which was responsible for this outburst was a little pasteboard box which Dorothy's employer had handed to her only a few minutes before, with the result that conscience was fairly beating a tattoo on her heart-strings. She really wanted to do something to help the boys "over there," but how could she? she argued. Yet every time she heard the aggravating hollow thud of the empty box as it swung in the silk bag on her arm, she thought of an old but dainty white silk stocking tucked away back in her bureau drawer with three crisp ten-dollar bills in its toe.

When two years before Dorothy had secured a position which meant a desk and a swivel chair in a large office, it seemed as if she had reached the pinnacle of success as a business woman, but she soon found that eighteen dollars a week did not go very far. Indeed, for months the height of her ambition had been to save enough money for a new blue suit for fall, and she thought of it every time her eye caught sight of the bright new ring on her finger—blue would look so nice beside Ray's khaki. She had pinched and squeezed every dime until the eagle fairly squawked—and now the goal was so near—oh, she just couldn't give it up! No, anything but that!

"Extra! Extra! American Army in Great Smash! Extra!" cried the newsboys up and down the street.

Dorothy shuddered as the words were suddenly visualized and she saw on the battlefields of France our boys, fighting for love of justice and humanity. How could they nobly bear their part in the terrible conflict, were it not for the remembrance of the beloved home land—their confidence that all loyal Americans are with them in the saving and giving which will win the war.

"I might just as well face this thing first and last, for it begins to look as if it really were a question," the girl declared aloud, as, reaching her room, she threw her hat and gloves onto the table and herself into a chair by the open window. "Dorothy Bolton, are you a slacker, or are you not?" was her indignant demand.

Instantly the rockers of the little wicker chair squeaked, "You are! You are! You are!"

"You saucy thing," laughed Dorothy; "but I'm afraid you're speaking the truth," she added ruefully. She reached for her bag, drew out the little pasteboard box, and turned it over slowly. "Red, white and blue," she murmured softly. "The colors of our beloved country—somehow they mean more than they ever did before." Then the words "Woman's Liberty Loan Committee of New England," caught her eye. Surely women were coming into their own in this work, she thought. Though they may not go into the trenches and fight, they can work and save and give as well as the men.

For a few moments Dorothy sat very still, looking out over the tops of the buildings with their smoking chimneys, past the tall elm trees on Boston Common, until her eyes rested on the gilded dome of the Capitol on Beacon Hill. To her awakening thought it was as if a tower of strength, reflecting the principles of pure democracy and liberty for which our government stands.

Suddenly she started from her chair, and a look of dismay crossed the pretty face.

"Sacrifice!" she exclaimed. "What have I been thinking about! Of course it isn't a sacrifice to wear our old clothes; it's just a great and glorious opportunity to do our bit. Why, I'd be ashamed to look Ray in the face if I could be so selfish when he is offering his life. Fifty dollars seems a good deal, but the thirty I have will be good for something toward it, and the rest will be only a trifle at a time." Clinging once more at the little box, she began to hum the lines that met her eye:

"First a nickel, then a dime, Save the pennies every time;—"
Dorothy stopped suddenly as a new thought came to her. "Why, it isn't actually giving the money after all," she said to herself, "it's just letting Uncle Sam have the use of what we save, and in time we'll have it all back with interest. Like all really good things it works both ways, and after the war is over I can have two suits from what I save. And maybe, yes maybe," she added, "the purchasing a home for two. That can be my bit!"

Ray is doing his in France—and now for a look at the old clothes—"Tap, tap," sounded on Dorothy's door a few minutes later, and her chum Marion from the next floor, armed with her knitting and a box of fudge, came in and flounced down in the little wicker chair.

"What in the world are you doing with all those clothes, Dot? Not packing for home yet, are you?" Dorothy laughed gaily. "No, oh no; just 'taking stock,' as you saleswomen call it. You see I'm getting very businesslike."

"Altogether too much so for my limited understanding," retorted her friend. "Come, what's it all about, Dorothy?"

But that perverse little lady was in no hurry to satisfy her friend's curiosity. "For once in my life," she teased, "I'm going to be in the height of the style—fashionable to an extreme. I've joined the Reserve Regiment of Volunteer Clothing Savers. Behold the badge of honor!" and Dorothy waved her hands dramatically toward the array of worn but fairly presentable suits and dresses on her bed, and laughed heartily at Marion's mystified look.

"This regiment is perfectly great," she went on, "and it's going to be a mighty popular one, for every woman who joins it must qualify by the wearing of her last year and the year before's clothes—performing a perfectly heroic deed of bravery! The only drawback is that their uniforms of made-overs will be undecorated with stripes or medals, and Pershing will never review this branch of his reserves. But we'll march with the boys to victory just the same," she concluded earnestly.

For a few moments neither of the girls spoke, then Dorothy went on, speaking very low. "You know, Marion, I've waked up at last to the realization that I'm an American woman, and I'm going to be one in the true sense of the term. This is my government, and its problems are my problems, too. Even if I am just a little wee part of it, I cannot shrink that part. The least I can do is to make over my old clothes, and lend Uncle Sam all I can save."

Marion smiled ruefully. "And stop eating fudge," she interrupted. But Dorothy hurried on. "Mother always said it was an art to make over old clothes, and I think it is a good thing to have it revived and made fashionable. Why I was reading only yesterday that one of the highest salaried women in the country actually takes pride in saying that she has not had a new dress in three years."

"Probably she had more to make over than most of us," argued Marion, as she reached for another piece of fudge. Dorothy smiled. "Most of us have enough to get along with if we have the real spirit of patriotism back of us. Here I've been making myself think that I could not get along without a new suit this fall, but just see what I'm going to do," she explained eagerly. "This white serge circular skirt is perfectly good, but it's so wide I don't want to wear it, by having it dyed blue to match this one-piece serge dress, and making it into a military cape, I'll have a suit after all, and the cape can be worn with any dress. This black and white striped plaited skirt is badly worn and soiled around the hem, but it will clean beautifully and will be just the thing for a lining."

Marion gasped, partly in admiration, but half incredulously. "The idea is perfectly splendid," she admitted, "but frankly, Dot, the dress looks to me impossible, almost—if you'll pardon me—a relic of mediæval times."

"I'll acknowledge," answered Dorothy with a gay laugh, "that the blue serge is a dress with a past, but also one with countless possibilities. The skirt is wide enough to make a narrow foundation skirt, but as the new models are much shorter the extra lengths will make a straight apron tunic for the front and back, reaching from the shoulders, and I'll finish the sides and across the bottom with a four inch band of black satin cut from the old coat mother left when she was here. With the neck cut pointed in front, and a large collar evolved from this white crepe de chine waist, which has been a candidate for the scrap-heap for some time, I'll wager no one will ever dream of its past career of usefulness and activity. Of course," she added quickly, as she saw that Marion was not quite convinced, "the serge will be turned, for—see—it is like new on the wrong side."

Dorothy stopped for breath, and her companion laughed. "Where did you get your clever ideas, Dot? You are a wonder!" Dorothy's face flushed with pleasure. "I'm not the least bit of a wonder," she denied modestly. "In fact, I'm quite ashamed I didn't see all these possibilities before, for I'm truly grateful for an old-fashioned mother who helped me develop some practical ideas."

"This dress, too," the girl continued eagerly, as she shook out a dark gray satin skirt with chiffon tunic, "seems almost too narrow and worn to do anything with, as it has done me good service for two years now, but I can get a lovely long scarf out of it, lined with the chiffon and with two strips of marabout from this old neckpiece across the ends. Out of what is left I'll make a hat with a satin crown and chiffon brim, and with no expense but the cost of the frame. Behold me fully equipped, mademoiselle, and all my own handiwork!"

"But when are you going to do all this work?" Marion's tone was slightly skeptical. "You are a busy stenographer, and you know how little energy you have left for scheming and sewing after a long, hard day at the office."

"You remember I'm to have two weeks' vacation," said Dorothy. "Instead of spending a week at the beach, as I had planned, that money will go into my Liberty Loan box and I'll spend all the time at home on the first and do my sewing while I'm visiting with mother."

When the Liberty Loan thing-box was opened two months later, Dorothy found she had saved almost enough money to finish paying for the fifty-dollar bond, started with the thirty dollars from the old stocking toe and the two dollars that a week at the beach would have cost.

"What is more," she confided to Marion, "now that I've found I can save, 'First a nickel, then a dime,' I make up my mind to do it. I'm taking another bond on the dollar down and dollar a week plan, to go with the one father gave me as a neat-gest toward the home Raymond and I hope to have when the war is over."

"I haven't that to look forward to," said Marion soberly, "and I'm not clever enough to make over things, but no more nickels or dimes are going to slip through my fingers for sodas and movies until I've saved at least a dollar a week out of my salary for a Liberty Bond. Here's my hand on it!"

"Oh, Ray! I'm so thankful I waked up in time to have a part in this Liberty Loan drive," Dorothy said to her khaki-clad escort as they walked through the park the night before he sailed for France. "I realize as I never did before what a wonderful privilege it is to be an American woman in these days of worldwide sorrow. We must make sacrifices," and she looked at him fondly. "But out of these trials will come sunshine and happiness for all the world!"

The man in khaki looked at the girl at his side dressed for the first time in the "uniform" of the Reserve Regiment of Volunteer Clothing Savers and with the light of love and patriotism in her eyes. Never had she looked so beautiful to him, and he answered softly, "Yes, Dot, it is a wonderful thing to be an American woman, but to me the most glorious of all is that you are the loyal sweetheart of an American soldier."

PARENTS OF BOYS 15 TO 19 IMPORTANT

The Government is calling on the colleges and technical schools of the country to train officers for the army and navy. Beginning with Oct. 1, 1918, all college students within the draft will continue their college training as soldiers of the United States Army at the expense of the Government. They will receive board, room, books, complete equipment, and $30.00 a month.

Boys should and can enter college before they are 18. The Huntington School offers to boys who have one or two years of school work before they can enter college an opportunity to do two years' work in one. The school will be open the entire year with three sixteen-week terms each year. A full unit course will be given each sixteen weeks. (Circular of information gives complete plan.)

Only boys who are physically able, who have better than average ability, and are otherwise acceptable to the school will be admitted.

The customary program of school work for boys from 8 to 18 will also be continued, as in previous years.

First term opens October 1, 1918.

WASHINGTON

Again the Government comes to the people of the country with the request that they lend their money, and lend it upon a more liberal scale than ever before, in order that the great war for the rights of America and the liberation of the world may be prosecuted with ever increasing vigor to a victorious conclusion. And it makes the appeal with the greatest confidence because it knows that every day it is becoming clearer and clearer to thinking men throughout the nation that the winning of the war is an essential investment. The money that is held back now will be of little use or value if the war is not won and the selfish masters of Germany are permitted to dictate what America may and may not do. Men in America, besides, have from the first until now dedicated both their lives and their fortunes to the vindication and maintenance of the great principles and objects for which our Government was set up. They will not fail now to show the world for what their wealth was intended.

Woodrow Wilson
